'It's collection time,' bandits tell congregation

The surge of robberies in Indianapolis was never more evident than Sunday night when three armed men robbed worshippers of an undetermined amount of money during services at the Church of God in Christ 1210 E. 2nd.

Rev. John O. Williams, 78-year-old pastor of the near-Eastside church, told police the bandits struck at about 8 p.m. Two were armed with revolvers and a third carried a sawed-off shotgun.

Witnesses said two, one carrying the shotgun, entered the church via the front door, while the third came in a side entrance.

"It's collection time," announced one of the robbers, according to Rev. Williams.

The 35 members of the congregation, many of them children, were told to empty their pockets.

Members were ordered to throw their wallets and purses into the center aisle as two of the men collected the valuables. Rev. Williams said one of the men asked him if he had any money.

Rev. Williams said he told the bandit he had none, and then ordered him to "get out of my church."

Authorities said the men, all black, escaped with the wallets and purses of 16 persons. Before departing, the robbers ordered the congregation to wait 10 minutes before summoning

Jackson 5 star sued for divorce

LOS ANGELES--

After a short marriage of nine months, Jackson Five member, Sigmund (Jackie) Jackson, is being sued for divorce by his 21-year-old wife Enid Arden Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson, seeking temporary monthly support of $5,000, filed suit against her husband in Superior Court here. She said they have community property valued at $10 million.

Married in a private ceremony last Nov. 23 at the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas, the couple separated Aug. 16.

At the wedding, attended only by immediate family members and the JF's 18 - member entourage, Jackie reportedly wore sneakers and a gym suit while his bride took her vows in slacks and a jacket.

At that time, a JF spokesman explained: "Jackie said that since they were going to be comfortable in their marriage, they were going to be comfortable when they got married."

A Hollywood reception for Mr. and Mrs. Jackson was hosted by the bride's parents and an aunt.

Jackie met his bride, of Korean and black descent, while both were students at a Beverly Hills high school.

His marriage last year left only two of the JF single, Michael, 16, and Marlon, 18. The JF group has thrilled audiences the world over with its musical style and colorful choreography.

Juan Solomon Park dedication set Sunday

The life of the late Juan C. Solomon, a man who made countless contributions to the betterment of his community, will be recalled Sunday when the Department of Parks and Recreation dedicates a park in his honor at 6100 Grandview Drive.

Ceremonies, which will feature dignitaries from throughout the city and state, are scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Solomon, who died September 3, 1973, organized the Metropolitan Manpower Commission in Indianapolis seven years ago while on loan from Eli Lilly and Company, where he was manager of community relations. Solomon was with the

Youth, 19, girl, 10, shot in aftermath of gang fight

Quick work on the part of an Indianapolis Police Department detective resulted in the arrest of one suspect late Wednesday evening in less than two hours.

A 19-year-old Northside youth was shot and critically wounded on the porch of a residence at 4239 Boulevard Place.

The detective, Joe Lackey, stopped a 1969 Mercury Cougar which answered the description of the automobile used in the shooting near 34th and Clifton Wednesday night and arrested Kenneth A. Thurston, 19, 3540 Baltimore, in connection with the shooting earlier of Broderick Anderson, of 424 W. 40th and Miss Marie Wright, 10, of 3818 Carrollton.

Anderson, who remained in critical condition late Wednesday at Marion County General Hospital, was shot at least five times in the back as he sought frantically to gain entrance to the home of his cousin who lived at the Boulevard Place address.

Ironically, according to Lackey, one of the police department's top homicide investigators, the shots which cut down Anderson were believed to have been meant for his cousin, Bobby Keith Wright, 18, who lived at the Boulevard Place address.

Lackey said the shooting is believed to have been the outgrowth of a free-for-all gang fight which occurred last Saturday night and reportedly involved groups of teenagers from the Northside of town and from the Eastside.

Anderson, shot five times in the back was found on the front porch of the residence, when police arrived at the shooting scene. Little Miss Wright was shot once in the leg when she went to the front door of the house at 4239 Boulevard to see what was going on.

Witnesses told police that Anderson had been chased down Boulevard by two occupants in the black over yellow cougar and turned in at his cousin's residence and attempted to gain entrance to the house.

According to the witnesses, one teenager got out of the right door of the car and fired about 10 shots at Anderson as he clawed frantically at the door to the Wright residence, before speeding from the scene.

The witnesses later told

B-U-L-L-E-T-I-N

Police announced late Wednesday night that they had arrested a man identified as the trigger man in the Northside shooting of Broderick Anderson earlier in the day. Charged with assault and battery with intent to kill was 20-year-old Steven L. Taylor, 1118 N. Warman. He was arrested at his home at about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday night.

Free school lunch bill passed by Senate; sent to White House

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- A $2.75 billion bill to expand school lunch programs and give free lunches to children with unemployed parents was passed late last week by the U.S. House and sent to the Senate early this week. Following a brief debate, the Senate passed the measure by a voice vote and sent it to the White House.

The measure requires schools to offer free lunches to eligible children, as at present and reduced price meals to students whose parents make under $8,770 a year. The reduced price meals program is optional now and sponsors indicate many schools have not offered.

A 38-year-old police detective, temporarily suspended from the force three months ago in connection with the off-duty shooting of a man, remained in serious condition at Recorder press time following what police said was an attempted robbery early Saturday morning.

John M. Sims, currently working for the Metro Bus System, was shot twice once in the left hand and once in the chest--while "napping" in the 300 block of N. Walcott.

All three suspects have been apprehended. A third, who was not arrested, surrendered voluntarily Saturday and will be used as a witness for the state against Gordon Cantrell, 22, 500 block of Fletcher, and Charles Egner, 18, 700 block of S. Lynhurst.

Sims was found hanging out of his car at the intersection of State and New York, according to Homicide detective Sgt. Jack Ohrberg. Police say Sims was sleeping in his car shortly before 2 a.m. when two men attempted to rob him.

Sims, who said he was about to get out of his car, reported that one of the men shot him twice, but he himself managed

Lackey, Anderson and his cousin, Wright, "look a lot alike and that the gunman probably confused the two."

Lackey said late Wednesday that Thurston had admitted that his car was involved in the shooting, but denied being the gunman.

Another teenager, identified by Thurston as having fired the shots was still being sought at Recorder press time Wednesday.

Memorial services for Dr. Glatt to be held Saturday

A memorial service for Dr. Charles Glatt will be held Saturday, September 27, at St. John's Baptist Church, 1701 Martindale.

Dr. Glatt was an active churchman and a leader in the struggles to solve the problems of school integration. Dr. Glatt was one commissioner appointed by the U.S. District Court to devise ways to desegregate the Indianapolis Public Schools.

Dr. Glatt was shot and killed Friday, September 18, as he was working with the Dayton, Ohio community to bring about the desegregation of the public schools there.

NAACP complaint leads to probe of city employment by revenue sharing agency

Two investigators from the U. S. Office of Revenue Sharing were in Indianapolis late last week looking into a complaint filed by the NAACP charging the city with discrimination in its hiring practices. The Recorder has learned.

The pair talked to various community and civic leaders including NAACP board members, last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and discussed possible violations in rules and regulations on employment by the city administration.

If found guilty of violations, the flow of revenue sharing funds into Indianapolis could be halted.

Black appointed editor of Monthly Labor Review

WASHINGTON—Robert W. Fisher, a black, has been appointed executive editor and chief of the Division of the Monthly Labor Review of the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Fisher has been a member of the staff of the Bureau's Office of Publications since 1966. He has served as associate editor and managing editor of the Monthly Labor Review.

A native of Detroit, Fisher received a cash award for a special report on the handling of dismissal cases under U.S. law, custom and contract entitled, "When Workers are Discharged—An Overview." The article, which appeared in the June 1973 issue of the Monthly Labor Review, won him a Lawrence R. Klein Award for 1973.

Before joining the Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division in 1960, Fisher worked with the Department of the Air Force.

He holds B.A. and M.A. degrees in economics from Michigan State University and is married to the former Katherine James of Flint, Mich. They live in Washington, D.C. with their three children, Robert, Deidre and Jocelyn.

All but one of America's dental schools is dependent to some extent on advanced facilities in Veterans Administration hospitals.

There seems to be something going on these days among Black youth that I can't find good, valid reasons for.

I've reread Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have a Dream." I've re-studied Malcolm X's Autobiography. Looking for clues. For answers to something I may have missed. Because I firmly believe that both of these works serve as tools to broaden the hopes and aspirations of the nation's Black population.

But I wonder, did they fall short of their goal? Is an insignificant slogan like "doing your own thing" the only fruit they bore?

Perhaps you can tell me.

Tell me why some young people today are making it unsavory for Black youth to embrace the axiom, "Today's Youth, Tomorrow's Leaders."

Perhaps you can tell me why, instead of attending schools and preparing themselves to overcome some of the inequities of this society, many of our young people seem to work overtime to avoid the opportunity of education.

For example, not long ago in Chicago, a group of students disrupted classes because the school's administrators banned wearing hats and knitted caps in the building or the classrooms.

It seems to me a definite sign of disrespect to our elders, our women, and our institutions, when Black youth sit around with hats on.

Could this be simply an ego trip? Or a hard case of sloppy hair-dos? What?

Whatever, one thing occurs to me. If all the marching and singing fostered only egomania or sloppiness, then we'd better look to change something.

To change "We Shall Overcome" to we shall go under.

WEST LAFAYETTE—Purdue University's Black Cultural Center will have two visiting artists - in residence this fall.

Making a return visit will be Darlene Blackburn, dance choreographer of Chicago, to conduct master classes in "Black Social Dance in America." Ms. Blackburn's visit is sponsored by Purdue Convocations and Lectures in cooperation with the Black Cultural Center and the Department of Physical Education for Women.

The second artist-in-residence is Prof. Robert Ray of St. Louis, an associate professor of music at the University of Illinois, Urbana. Ray will instruct Black choral music. Rehearsals will be conducted at the University Church sanctuary, 320 North St., West Lafayette.

Ms. Blackburn and Ray will direct performances as a part of the first Black Arts Festival Dec. 6-7. Under the direction of Ms. Blackburn, the BCC Jahari Dancers and the Purdue Dancers will perform Dec. 6 in Fowler Hall, Stewart Center. The BCC Choir and the Community Choral Ensemble will perform Dec. 7 in Loeb Playhouse. The choir will be directed by Ray.

Guest soloist will be Ms. Mattie Moss Clark, gospel recording artist from Detroit.

Petty and Michael Westbrooks, two counselor-recruiters for the plan.

The Indianapolis Plan was originated in 1970 for the purpose of placing more minorities in the building trades. These trades include bricklayers, carpenters, cement masons, electricians, pipefitters, plumbers, and all other crafts related.

The plan has been one hundred per cent successful since its conception over five years ago. It has placed over 1800 men into the trades industry, doubling the required amount.

"Apprenticeship programs through the crafts union had been keeping minorities out of this type of work by the qualifications prospective employees must meet such as: high school diploma or GED; pass qualifying tests; an 18-26 age limit; and the physically fit," said Mr. Westbrooks.

The Indianapolis Plan set up training programs for minorities who were not in the apprenticeship programs. Usually recruits are over the apprenticeable age limit of 26, do not have a high school diploma, or fail to pass necessary tests for apprenticeship.

The only qualifications necessary to qualify an applicant under the Indianapolis Plan are that an applicant must have an interest in the building trade and a will to work.

Director of the plan, Albert Butler, said that appeals have been made to the mayor, deputy mayor, and the Department of Labor, but so far no positive results have come about.

"If the grant is cut, all trainee programs would be shut down, there will be a large scale reduction in compliance reviews, and the current staff and instructors would be cut to an almost inoperable number," Butler added.

Nationally, The Indianapolis Plan has been regarded as one of the best in the country.

City ministers to celebrate 'The Lord's Supper' Sept. 30

WILLA THOMAS

Celebrating the Lord's Supper jointly here in Indianapolis will be local clergy from eight Protestant groups at a meeting of the Indianapolis Ministers Tuesday, Sept. 30. The 8 a.m. ecumenical service will be held at the Phillips Temple CME Church, and will be under the direction of Bishop Ralph T. Alton, head of the Indiana Area, United Methodist Church, and seven other clergymen.

The ministers will each have a part in an order of worship taken from a service now in interim use by the eight denominations which nationally are involved in the Consultation on Church Union.

"We want to demonstrate our oneness in Christ and help to prepare the ministers in metropolitan Indianapolis for the celebration of World Wide Communion," Bishop Alton said.

ADDIS ABABA - (NBNS) - Ethiopia's military rulers have ordered students to continue educating the country's peasants until June, 1976. That means that by that date Ethiopia's universities and other institutions of higher learning will have been closed for almost two and a half years. They were closed in March, 1974, after a series of strikes, and the military Government ordered the students to conduct a literacy and political orientation campaign in the rural areas. The country has a 5 percent literacy rate.

A highlight of apprenticeship activities during the 1974 fiscal year was the reactivation of the Federal Committee on Apprenticeship, according to the annual report of the U.S. Department of Labor.

"Our denominations have been working on church union a long time, and this service will bring a symbol of our hope for a continued relationship to the local parish level," the bishop added.

The Right Reverend John P. Craine, bishop of the Indianapolis Diocese of the Episcopal Church, will preach during the service.

Other celebrants will be the Rev. Robert L. LaFollette, (United Presbyterian); the Rev. Roy C. Snyder (United Church of Christ); the Rev. J. Solomon Benn III (African Methodist Episcopal Zion); the Rev. Paul S. Stauffer (Christian Church Disciples); and the Rev. H.L. Burton, minister of Phillips Temple (C.M.E.).

Also participating in the service will be the Rev. Robert A. Schilling (United Methodist), organist; and the Rev. Betty Knott (United Presbyterian), who will read the Scriptures.

All ministers of the eight cooperating denominations in metropolitan Indianapolis are invited to attend, Bishop Alton said.

The occasion will provide an "interim Eucharistic fellowship" to those taking place currently in many communities across the nation, he said.

Wishard Memorial Hospital to be dedicated Sunday, Sept. 28

A new name, the fourth in the history of the 109-year-old history of Marion County General Hospital, will become Wishard Memorial Hospital effective Sept. 28, honoring the late Dr. William N. Wishard, superintendent of the former Indianapolis City Hospital from July 1, 1879, to Jan. 1, 1887.

Dr. Wishard organized and was head of the department of genito-urinary surgery at Indiana University School of Medicine from 1887 to 1936. During his tenure as superintendent, he initiated erection of the first up-to-date hospital in the state.

The hospital opened for patients July 1, 1886 as Indianapolis City Hospital and became Indianapolis General Hospital in 1947. Its name was changed to Marion County General Hospital in 1959.

The chairman of the board of trustees, Jean C. SerVass noted a memorial tribute will be paid Dr. Wishard on Sept. 28 at dedication of the new $13 million Regenstrief Health Center at the hospital. The new address of Wishard Memorial Hospital will be 1001 West 10th Street.

Rev. Walter Oliver, evangelist, to visit Indianapolis neighborhoods

By Eunice McLayea

"As I look out the window, I can see the boys swaying from an overdose of Skag. They're waiting for their connections. Many of them are tired of their drug ridden life. They want out. With men, it's impossible, but with God, All things are possible."

These are the words of Rev. Walter B. Oliver Jr., a dynamic young black minister who works with addicts, alcoholics, prostitutes, and anyone who is ill or troubled.

He will be in Indianapolis, visiting all people in neighborhoods that might have these problems in an effort to help them move closer to God. He plans to do this by preaching the gospel. All that he asks a prospect to do is repent and be baptized.

Rev. Oliver is originally from New Haven, Connecticut. He is married and the father of two children. While in New Haven, Rev. Oliver drove a big blue bus, called the House of Hope, which was equipped with anything a church was equipped with. Through an intercom system, he would preach to the people all over the city.

While in Indianapolis, Rev. Oliver plans to make Faith Apostolic Church, 2102 N. Central, his home base. He will be guest speaker Monday through Sunday at 8:00 p.m. Elder Walter Plummer is the minister of that church.

During an interview, Rev. Oliver was asked why he felt that the different rehabilitation centers couldn't help drug addicts and alcoholics. This was his reply:

"I feel that all of the drug centers are almost useless. I know, because I have worked in them. These people are looking for peace through drugs and alcohol, but their peace that they find is only a temporary peace. God is a ever lasting peace. So when addicts trade heroin for methadone, or alcoholics trade alcohol for tobacco, they still haven't found the everlasting peace they are seeking."

"Our program," he continued, "not only tries to reach the people who have these ills, but their parents and friends as well. Too often, parents preach one thing to their kids, then turn around and do the exact opposite. No wonder there's a gap between parent and child."

Rev. Oliver and Rev. Plummer invite you to attend their services.

New York stock brokers' firm opens office in Liberia, W. A.

NEW YORK—Daniels & Bell, Inc., the first black-owned member firm in the New York Stock Exchange history, has become what is believed to be the first investment banking organization to assume a major role in the industrial development and trade expansion of West Africa.

Through the recently created parent holding company, Dan Bell Securities Corporation, Daniels & Bell, Inc. announced formation of Daniels & Bell (Africa) Ltd. and the opening of offices in Monrovia, Liberia. Another office has been opened in Lome, Togo, where the firm is active as a consultant for various infrastructural development projects, and additional offices are being planned for other countries in West Africa.

Travers J. Bell, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Daniels & Bell, Inc., and chairman of Dan Bell Securities Corporation, said: "Creation of Daniels & Bell (Africa) Ltd. represent a significant link between Black Africa and the traditional capital markets centered in Wall Street. It is our intention to serve as the channel for bringing the interests of both areas together for growth and profit."

Steve A. Horton, a Liberian national and a director and major stockholder of West Africa's only private commercial bank, has been appointed director and chief operations officer for activities in Africa. Horton will be based in the Monrovia office.

Daniels & Bell, Inc. became a member of the New York Stock Exchange on June 24, 1971. Today, the firm, with headquarters in New York and a branch office in Chicago, engages in general brokerage with emphasis on institutional clients; investment banking; money management, and financial planning.

The firm has been active as a financial consultant to black-governed municipalities, participating in financing and fiscal planning.

Symphony Orchestra to perform during Oct. 1 exposition

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra will offer a one-hour concert from 12:10 to 1:10 p.m., on Wednesday, October 1, during a United Way agency exposition on Monument Circle.

The three-hour exposition will be open to the public from 11:00 a.m. to 2 p.m. Methodist Hospital's "People Helping People" choral group will entertain, as the exposition opens, from 11 to 11:45 a.m.

A brief ceremony, with United Way campaign chairman, Fred C. Tucker, Jr., presiding, will follow the appearance of the choral group.

Mrs. Doris A. Beck, advertising director of the Indianapolis Athletic Club's Indac magazine, is chairman of the United Way exposition committee. R.H. Carrell, Indianapolis Water Company public relations director, is unit vice chairman.

The 34 United Way agencies participating in the exposition will offer program exhibits, information referral services, screening programs, film strip and slide presentations.

Several agencies will also provide entertainment. The Indianapolis Senior Citizens Center dancers will perform from 1:10 to 2:00 p.m., and the Catholic Youth Organization will offer a continuous talent show.

THOMAS GLOVER

Funeral services for Thomas H. Glover, age 87, 2526 North Eastern were held Tuesday, Sept. 23 in Gallilee Baptist Church. He died Thursday, Sept. 18, in his home. He was a retired employee of Citizens' Gas & Coke Utility. He was a member of the Gallilee Church. ## GOP nominee for mayor, Hudnut, stresses thrift on home front

Former Congressman Bill Hudnut said that "government thrift should begin on the local level since the Washington bureaucrats obviously are not ready for real economy on the national level," in addressing the Indiana Society of Professional Engineers and the American Society of Heating & Air Conditioning Engineers at a meeting in the Indianapolis Athletic Club last week.

"I really feel that a lot of Americans have had it just about up to here with big government," Hudnut said. "They want government run efficiently. They want government decentralized. They want power to return to the people." "They want government off their backs and out of their pocketbooks."

Hudnut said he realized that people would ask him why, if he felt that way, he would run for mayor of Indianapolis.

"The reason I'm running for mayor is that I want to bring government to the people," he said. "I don't want to see city government growing and growing and, if you please, gobbling up more and more money in property taxes."

"I don't want taxes to go up. I voted against raising the ceiling on the national debt three times while I was in Washington, and three times I was on the losing side. And three times the national debt went up."

"This is one of the reasons why we have inflation today -- because of the tremendous extravagance in Washington and the tremendous profligacy in touching the Federal treasury."

"It concerns me that the national debt is over $500 billion. That is more than one-third the Gross National Product. This, I think, is dangerous. And, ultimately, we're going to head toward bankruptcy or toward socialism or toward uncontrolled inflation."

Senior Citizens trip south to Florida planned

A specialty trip to Florida planned just for area senior citizens is coming up in October.

Sponsored by the Department of Parks and Recreation, the tour to Cocoa Beach is scheduled for October 15-22. The cost of $270 per person covers airfare from Indianapolis to Florida, all tips and taxes, double room at the Atlantis Beach Lodge, trips to Disney World, Sea World and Cape Canaveral and all meals each day--everything in fact except personal spending money.

The Atlantis Beach Lodge is an ocean-front hotel catering to the special wishes of senior citizens. It has two swimming pools in addition to its lovely beach.

Mrs. Eddie Sparks of the Parks Department and Mrs. Donna Warden of American Fletcher National Bank Travel Centers are coordinating the tour. Questions about the tour and reservations should be directed to Mrs. Sparks at 924-

Couple hosts extravagant evening

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Crice served as host and hostesses for not only a beautiful cocktail party at their home at 4102 N. Illinois, but at the Prince Hall Day Celebration at the Indiana Expo Center as well.

Saturday, September 20, will be a day to be remembered for guest of the Crices which included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. William Warfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Crow, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Williams, Mr. James Cruse, Mrs. Ida Lyles, Mr. and Mrs. Burbin Caesar, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Orton Shelton and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

The Crices furnished tickets for the celebration and set everyone of the guests up with drinks. Everyone enjoyed a lovely and extravagant evening.

The YWCA's Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department also announces a new eight-week class for children ages 3-8 years in Motor Development at the Headquarters Building 822 Ft. Wayne Avenue. This includes work in the areas of balance, perception, hand-eye coordination, movement and rhythmic and is designed to contribute to the development of motor skills, sense of self-awareness, confidence and sociability.

Classes will be held Saturday mornings at 10:00 for 3-5 years olds and 10:30 for ages 6-8, starting September 27.

Swimming classes, starting September 29, are being held for women, children and parent-tot at the Nottingham Village Apartments pool, Post Road and East 21st Street and at the Ramada Inn Airport, 5455 Bradbury. Aquacize, Water Ballet and private lessons are also available.

Call the YWCA, 635-5471, for further details.

'Miss Haiti' a real tiger on women's lib

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti-Gerthie David, Miss Haiti, and first runnerup in the 1975 Miss Universe Pageant, appears to be about as fierce as a brown velvet kitten. But the dark-eyed beauty—who made history as the first black ever to reach the finals of the pageant—can be a real tiger on the subject of women's liberation.

"Women in Haiti are more or less bound by tradition," she says. "For centuries they have followed customs passed along from generation to generation. I think many women everywhere are totally unaware of the opportunities which exist for them." She hopes to accelerate recognition for Haitian women through her role as Miss Haiti, a position which has whisked her from obscure student to national heroine. Her homecoming after the Miss Universe victory became almost a national holiday.

Gerthie also wants to repay her country for sending her to the pageant—she was sponsored by the Haiti National Office of Tourism and was the first contestant from the island since 1968—by introducing Haiti to potential new visitors. "I have been quite surprised," she said, hiding a trace of indignation, "at the number of people who have asked where Haiti is, is it in France, or Africa, or the South Pacific? I want to be an ambassador for my country. The happiest day of my life was when I was chosen as Miss Haiti."

Although only 20, Gerthie is coolly elegant, a striking 5 foot 8 inch packet of poise, with 120 lbs. artfully distributed 34-26-36. A parttime model in her home city of Port-au-Prince she plans to attend the Academie of Fine Arts there for one year before going to Chicago to study interior design. She speaks fluent French, English and Spanish.

In her long range plans, "maybe when I'm about 26" is marriage. Current favorite in that department is 20-year-old Philippe Dodard, a Port-au-Prince artist who tried to discourage her from entering the Miss Haiti contest.

Her mother, Mrs. Eline David, a mathematics, French and history teacher, teasingly told her lovely daughter it would be "a good chance to show off." "When I came home with the Miss Haiti crown" Gerthie laughed, "my Mother asked me if the real queen had given it to me. I joke so much she didn't believe I had won."

Just as skeptical was Gerthie's brother, Odell, Jr., a Port-au-Prince engineer. "He called after the pageant and I told him I was first runnerup to Miss Universe and he said, 'Come on, girl, be quick, tell the truth.' A day later, after he read the news he called and congratulated me."

Gerthie's father, a brilliant lawyer, died when she was three. In addition to her mother and brother, the family includes two sisters—Maude, 22, who just finished secretarial school, and Michelle, 18, who is studying medicine in Chicago. With half of her thousand dollar prize money Gerthie wants to visit Michelle. With the other half, "I will buy dresses."

City Federation

By CLARA PHILLIPS

The City Federation will meet Tuesday, October 7, at 3:30 p.m. in the club home, 2034 N. Capitol Ave. All clubs are asked to represent at this meeting, so that the plans for the new year can be given by the president, Mrs. Mary Carter.

The Thursday Coterie Club will meet October 2, Mrs. Bessie Rutland is president. All members are expected to be present.

The Progressive Needlecraft Club has changed their date of opening. They will meet on the second Friday in October, at 3 p.m. This meeting will be in the home of the president Mrs. Geneva Watts, on Grandiose. She wishes to present her program for the coming club year. All members are expected.

Mrs. Estell Chapman, state president, from East Chicago, will be looking for all clubs of the state Saturday morning at 9 a.m. at the club home, 2034 N. Capitol Ave. This is called the Annual Homecoming and Executive Board meeting for the state Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

Come and plan to spend the day because the trustees of the home are planning a lovely dinner. Mrs. Sarah Allen is the chairman of the trustees. She and her committee are looking for you.

Serviceman home on leave

Returning home for a thirty day leave, 3E Petty Officer Jerry W. Smartt will be visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie McClendon, 733 Drake Street.

Officer Smartt is an electronic technician assigned to USS Yosemite, a destroyer tender in Mayport, Florida.

Scarves are in as major fashions

AFTER ALL THESE years of covering heads during bad weather, scarves have finally come into their own as a major fashion. You can see them wrapping heads, filling in necklines and even accentuating waists. There are all kinds of neat tricks one can do with fancy knots, ties and twists. The prints and colors are exciting. At JCPenney, they vary from exotic jungle gardenias to Far Eastern designs with classic geometrics and paisleys artfully combined in new print treatments. Layered one, two and three, scarves make exciting additions to today's classic fashions. Pictured above is a neat head wrap to wear with "big tops," three scarves layered one over the other, then tied into a careful knot in back.

Jazz Arts Cabaret shaping up as one of top events of season

Final plans, rehearsals and more rehearsals are taking place daily and weekly for the Jazz Arts Cabaret, sponsored by Indianapolis Chapter of TLOD, and scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, October 4th, at the Atkinson Hotel's Great Hall.

Professional Jazz Combos of Billy Wooten and the Care Package are refining their "sounds". House of Jayne's Models are running through their paces, while Jayne Brown is creating dazzling fall and winter fashions for the show.

This is a premiere production for Indianapolis and will support scholarship fund of TTAs—an inter-high school group of 40 young people from Arlington, Brebeuf, Broad Ripple, Chantard, Crispus Attucks, NorthWest, Park Tudor, St. Mary's and Shortridge. Less than a year old, this group in bi-monthly meetings with a set of officers has carried on a live-wire program including the meanings of and deadlines for SATs, PCS's, State Scholarships and Grants, Basic Educational Grants—when and how to apply for them. Of the 17 who graduated in June, 15 are no in Indiana and other colleges. One is a merit scholar.

Career exploration is also a large part of their program. From a survey of their individual interests, the community can expect in the near future: criminal, corporate and international lawyers, child psychologists, electrical engineers, accountants, radio/television and newspaper journalists, creative writers, fashion illustrators and designers, psychiatrists, doctors, dentists, several majors in instrumental and vocal music, architects, a few computer technologists, a physical therapist, some social workers, a few special education teachers, two models and an interior decorator.

TLOD believes that investing in the motivation and training of youth is the very best way to insure a brighter future for all.

Fine couples, or 10 persons, will fill one of the round tables in a cabaret setting. Send money orders for a table made out to Indianapolis Chapter of TLOD, to Judge Rufus C. Kuykendall, 2202 N. Capitol Ave., 46208. Tickets at 15.00 per couple, may also be purchased at the House of Jayne, 109 E. 34th, weekdays from 11-7 (call 924-6313).

Only full tables will be reserved—first come, first served. Order a full table from Judge Kuykendall who will mail tickets immediately or pick them up in person at the House of Jayne.

MAKING FINAL PLANS for the Jazz Arts Cabaret, sponsored by the Indianapolis Chapter of TLOD, are (from left) Ms. Judy McDowell, Mrs. Ethel Kuykendall, jazz artist

ist Billy Wooten, and Ms. Jayne Brown. The affair is set for October 4 at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Atkinson Hotel. (Photo by Gilbert King)

TOP TEENS OF AMERICA (TTAs) enjoy a "rap" session of "Involvement in the Political System," led by Dean Rozelle Boyd, director of Special Services Program and

Rev. Shuttlesworth to speak at FAC anniversary

FAC's 38th Anniversary is just around the corner and enthusiasm is growing by leaps and bounds.

A special committee, headed by Mr. Chester Little, is especially delighted to have been able to engage the Rev. F.L. Shuttlesworth as the speaker.

Rev. Shuttlesworth of Greater New Light Baptist Church, Cinn., Ohio, has a background that qualifies him to do honor to the memory of Lionel Artis.

No history on the civil rights movement would be complete without the name of Rev. Shuttlesworth, who has given more of himself than anyone else for the cause of freedom.

In May, 1956, at Birmingham, Alabama, Rev. Shuttlesworth organized the Alabama Christian Movement For Human Rights (ACMHR). As president of that group, he declared that:

"They can outlaw the organization but not the movement of the people."

Rev. Shuttlesworth was beaten by mobsters, jailed more than twenty-five times and has been involved in thirty-six criminal civil actions. He has also been sued for three and one half million dollars, lost his car, and all of his property but he is more determined now, than ever, to see the civil rights struggle end in victory.

In pastoring his church, he continues his fight for freedom. He is organizer and president emeritus of the Alabama Christian Movement For Human Rights. He was first secretary and now board members of SCLC, Cinn. chapter. He received his BS degree at Alabama State College, where he also did graduate work.

He received honorary degrees at Birmingham Baptist College and has had seminary training at Cedar Grove Academy, Mobile, Alabama and Selma University.

Music Promoters enjoy 'roundup'

The Indianapolis Music Promoters enjoyed a roundup party in Riley Towers No. 3 Sunday, September 21. Guests included charter members Mrs. Selma Harty, Mrs. Clara Hill and Mr. Ralph McWilliams, many old friends and past officers, present members, contributors, local artists and new members.

Miss Marion Turner, treasurer, was chairman of the roundup. She was assisted by Ms. Helen Adams, financial secretary. Mrs. Mary Harper, vice president, exhibited the scrap book, which led to the party becoming a joyous reunion. Decorations were the records and album covers depicting the progress of Negro music, which played in the background.

Refreshments consisted of foreign dishes and hors d'oeuvres served under the watchful eye of Mrs. Marie Turner. Mrs. Mary L. Dixon, membership chairman, was there to greet the guests and Dr. Roscoe

R. Polin, president, was a most genial host.

The next general meeting will be held October 5 at 4 p.m. in Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 261 W. 25th.

Dukes Club installs officers

The Dukes Club installed new officers for the 75-76 year Sunday, September 21, at the home of Cecil Johnson, 3819 Bryan Street.

Installed as officers by Judge Mercer Mance were: Dukes: Alvin Davis, president; Otis Jones, vice-president; C.F. Allen, recording secretary; William Lowe, treasurer; Don W. Brown, sergeant-at-arms; and Damon S. Roach, club reporter.

After the officers were sworn in, club members were served a lovely dinner.

Weddings

MR. AND MRS. FRED MOORE

Rites unite Harwell-Moore

College Avenue Baptist Church was the setting Saturday, August 16, for the candlelit, double ring wedding ceremony of Miss Marcia A. Harwell and Fred H. Moore.

The bride is the daughter of Eld and Mrs. Clark Harwell, 2831 N. Temple. The groom is the son of Mrs. Virginia Brinkley and Fred P. Moore of Indianapolis.

The impressive ceremony was conducted amid decorations of yellow and white carnations and roses. Music included organ selections played by her brother Vernon, who also sang "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us."

Other selections were sang by Miss Ruth Treadwell, Miss Barbara Burrus, and Mrs. Mary Madden. After the bride was given away by her father, the groom sang "Till there was You," while the bride's mother watched as yellow roses were presented to her by daughter Marcia.

The bride was dressed in the traditional white satin gown and lace gown with tiny pearls inserted in each flower center. Her extra long train was accented with a ruffle at the end and was made of bridal lace and highlighted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The gowns of the bride, bridesmaids, little flower girl and the ringbearer's suit were all custom made by the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Harwell.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Valeria E. Harwell. She wore a white lace gown with a yellow ribbon trim throughout the ruffled bottom. The bridesmaids all wore yellow dotted swiss ruffled gowns and carried yellow carnations.

Bridesmaids were Misses Terri Benson, Donna Rowe, Nilean Young, Debra Alexander, Donna Wilburn and Opal Brinkley. Little Misses Freda Brinkley and Toyna Spivey were flower girls and they wore gowns of dotted swiss, with ruffles at the bottom.

Hatcher-Walker

Esther Rebecca Hatcher, daughter of Betty M. Hatcher and Samuel E. Hatcher, became the bride of Frederick H. Walker Saturday, in New Bethel Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Walker Jr. The bride attended Indiana-Purdue University, Indianapolis.

Honor attendants were Barbara L. Hatcher, Mrs. Ellis Dames, Richmond Heights, Fla. and Ira Harp Jr.

Southside

By Olga Robinson

Happenings

Interested people of the southside who wish to enhance the youth with more knowledge should see Mrs. Dorothy Brown, 1820 Calvin St. Mrs. Brown is trying to start a neighborhood library on Calvin St. to help the children and she would like to have any of your books, dictionaries, encyclopedias and current magazines.

Conditions of filth still exist in and around these projects: Clear Stream; Laurelwood; and Raymond and Perkins. Why do you feel you have to live in the conditions that exist there such as debris, scattered junk and broken bottles all over the courts and lawns. In the mist of all this junk, there you sit, contented to live or exist in all of this. I am sure there are some among you who really care enough to keep your own place clean but you may need help. Why not organized a clean-up club, and keep it up. It will pay off in the long run and you will be glad you did.

Anyone who would like to excel in their school work and need a tutor, should call Rev. Calhoun at the Tic Tot Learning Center and leave your name, phone number, and grade.

Precautions should be taken with bicycle and motor bike riding on busy Raymond and Bethel Avenues. Also, Keystone motorists cannot see the cyclist until he is up on him. Riding two by two, a cycle is extremely dangerous.

We wish to send our get well wishes to Mrs. Irene Smith, principal of School 64, who is ill at her home. Get well Mrs. Smith, we miss you.

The Boys Club, under the direction of Master Parris Brown, is doing wonderful. They made their first appearance on the Jim Gerrard Show. They have only been organized for about four months. Parris Brown is also a junior leader at the Troy Ave. Club. This young man is only 14 years old and he has the potential of a true leader.

Recently, the Indianapolis News, printed a picture of our race with braids on their heads and a caption that said "new hair do, conrow and lopsy braids." I think by now, we have just run out of foolish things to do. Next we will be pick-ninnies with little bows of ribbon on each braid.

Why not revert back to being a cultured black instead of a clown. You wonder why a man or a boy is not employed when he goes out to get employment. If you do not care any more about your appearance, take up with the first fool style you can and I can guarantee you that you will remain among those not wanted.

Hints For Homemakers

INEZ KAISER

The month of August usually ends my convention activities for the year. It is always a busy time for me, but a period I look forward to. This year my last working convention was in Seattle, Wash. After seven days filled with activities and campaigning for a national sorority office, I took time out to visit the U.S. Navy Support Unit there.

ALL ABOARD ON AIM

As a member of an advisory commission to the Department of Defense composed of 30 women from all over the United States, my tour of the facilities was fantastic.

One of the officers who joined us on part of the tour informed me that the only toothpaste his children would use is AIM.

I told him that I work for Lever Brothers, the company that makes this fine-tasting gel toothpaste with stannous fluoride.

We both agreed that children love the blue color of AIM, its great taste and how easily it spreads. The officer was interested to learn that AIM is not only popular with children, but is also a toothpaste that the entire family can enjoy. It was good to see his smile of approval as we moved on.

'all' DOES IT ALL

While we were waiting to see the commanding officer, I had a chance to talk with some of the WAVES.

Our conversation centered around such topics as shoes, uniforms, promotions, women being admitted to the armed forces' academies and military careers. As you might guess, our discussion led to the subject of laundering.

Each of them described personal experiences about laundering and ironing her cotton uniforms every night. One of the WAVES also mentioned the additional responsibility of laundering her small son's clothing.

I suggested she try using CONCENTRATED "all" with its bleach, borax and brighteners. I assured all of the WAVES that their clothes would look their best when washed with CONCENTRATED "all" because of its superior cleaning and stain-removal power.

The question arose as to whether "all" was good for oily stains, since one of them had worked aboard a ship. I pointed out that CONCENTRATED "all" was excellent for removing oily stains and a lot of other soils as well.

In fact, "all" is good for the whole wash.

IMPERIAL MAKES EVERYTHING TASTE BETTER

No conversation with a group of women these days can go on very long without talking about favorite taste treats.

And it usually doesn't take long before someone says a nice thing about IMPERIAL Margarine, the table spread that's fit for a king.

IMPERIAL adds just the right flavor to make any sandwich really appetizing.

IMPERIAL also seasons your vegetables and pies and cakes—in fact, just about everything you cook or bake—to make them taste as good or even better than years ago when mother did all her cooking with butter.

IMPERIAL has the very same basic flavor ingredients as butter. That's why they call it the "utterly, buttery margarine." You just can't get closer to butter than that.

LIFEBUOY RULES THE WAVES

After spending over three hours touring the base with the Public Affairs officers and a young intern photographer, we got ready to leave. It had been a most enlightening experience, and we hated to end our visit.

In the last building we visited I met a young WAVE from Kansas City who works in the infirmary. We chatted about our hometown and families.

As we stood by the counter chatting, I noticed a supply of LIFEBUOY soap. I nodded to the photographer and said, "This is a soap that you can count on to keep you smelling clean. It really is effective in terms of deodorant protection."

The photographer let me know that his family had used LIFEBUOY for many years. His mother had taught all of them that clean is supposed to be.

"That's why we always use it," he said, "and we're all very satisfied with the results."

At that point, the young WAVE spoke up. "LIFEBUOY is a popular soap for many sailors. And with WAVES, too. After all, us girls like to smell clean, too."

The Igals to hold Annual Scholarship Ball

The Igal's Annual Scholarship Ball will be held at the I.B.E.W. Electrical Union Hall 3518 E. Michigan St., on Nov. 8th. Because there is a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow, a pot filled with gold coins and nuggets will serve as centerpiece for the formal dance and rainbows will grace the room. Mrs. Marcus Wilson is dance chairman and her committees are headed by: Mrs. Bernice Blaine, invitations; Mrs. Dorcus Cravens, hospitality; and Mrs. Edna Brownlee and Mrs. Bessie Gordy, decorations. The beautiful gowns that the members will wear will make this formal ball a colorful event. This is an annual fair given by the Igals (International Girl Aid League). Proceeds will go towards sponsoring some young lady who will be going to college beginning the fall semester of each year. The organization was founded in 1964 by Mrs. Charles Sansbury who is now Sgt. Thelma Sansbury of the Indianapolis Police Department. The purpose of the Igals is to help deserving girls 12-21 years in any way. Scholarships funds have grown from $250 to $1000. The Igals would like to thank their many friends for helping them to support their purpose. Mrs. Louise Betty is president.

Cardettes hold meeting

The Cardette Club met at the home of Golda Glover on Friday evening. Mrs. Glover vice-president, presided due to the absence of the president, Ella Clark. All other members were present.

Mrs. Olga Jenkins, secretary read the minutes. It was decided at this meeting not to elect officers until the president could be present and it was also decided to change the meetings to another day and time which would be agreeable to all.

Lella Lessor, treasurer, gave her report. Plans were discussed for a club outing. Birthday members were feted with cards and gifts. The hostess served delicious refreshments, and whist was enjoyed by all. Winners of the whist games were Olga Jenkins and Gladys Johnson, first place and Flossie Hill, second place. The next meeting is scheduled to be held next month with Olga Jenkins.

Dear Louise

White women know how to treat their men!

Dear Louise,
I can not understand why people get too upset over seeing a black man with a white woman or a white man with a black woman. My boyfriend is black and every time we go out together, some black women always has something smart to say or else they look at you like you've committed a crime. I think they are envious because I have got him and they don't. So many times I have heard some of his friends ask him, why are you with this chick when there are so many beautiful black women out there alone. Well, I think I know the answer. White women know how to treat their men! My mantold me that black women are too independent and outspoken. Also they don't build their men up enough business wise or personally. (Good thing my name won't be published). So I wish that they would leave us alone and get their own thing together. Signed: I make my man feel like a man!

Dear Lady,
Thank you for a very interesting letter. I'm quite sure some people are upset over your thinking, therefore, I won't give my opinion to your letter this week. However, I'd like to give my readers a chance to express their feelings about the subject. So, ladies and gents, is she right or wrong in her reasons why our black men are turning to the other race? Send letters to: LOUISE, 2901 N. Tacoma, Indianapolis, Indiana 46218.

EASY COME, EASY GO.

Amtrak. The easy way to go downtown to downtown almost anywhere in the U.S.A.

There's nothing easier in this world to take than an Amtrak train. From the quick and easy way Amtrak Reservations and Information answers the phone to the quick and easy way Amtrak comes and goes. To over 480 cities in America.

Traveling by train has always been something special. Something different. Even romantic. But now, when you compare it with all the other up-tight means of getting anywhere it takes on a whole new glow.

So maybe you ought to give us a call.

Driving can drive you crazy.

When you go from city to city by car, you have to get up real early to beat the traffic... and then it catches up with you when you're halfway to where you want to go. There you are fuming in the fumes (auto exhaust isn't very healthy for you or your kids), watching for speed limits, paying through the nose for gas.

The wear and tear on your car is only surpassed by the wear and tear on you. And at 17¢ a mile (that's what it'll cost you for gas, oil and depreciation) it's no great bargain. As a matter of fact going most places by train could cost you less. And when you consider the additional cost of tolls, parking and possible repairs, going by Amtrak could cost you a lot less. (Now, what was that Amtrak information and reservations number???)

Flying can leave you up in the air.

First get to the airport. Grab a cab and pretty soon you're fuming in the traffic. Pay your fare (it's plenty). Or take your car and try to find a place to park.

At the airport search for the gate. If the weather is fine and the ground traffic not too heavy you're off. Great flight if it turns out to be a smooth flight, and you're on your way in if the landing traffic isn't too heavy.

Then you begin the cab ride hassle downtown again. (Now what was that number for Amtrak???)

We're also easy on your stomach.

What's an Amtrak?

America's inter-city rail passenger service. That's what. And on many inter-city routes you don't even need a reservation.

So all you do is go down to the station (downtown, not out-of-town), buy a ticket and get on board. On longer trips reservations are required for both coach and private accommodations. So when your travel plans are completed call Amtrak, or your travel agent.

Getting there is more than half the fun.

Once aboard just sink into the big wide seat, stretch your legs and relax. If you have a wanderlust you can always take a stroll down the aisle. Many Amtrak trains have very elegant restaurants right on board with very unelegant prices. A full steak dinner, starting with appetizer and ending with vegetables and salad and ending with dessert and coffee, will cost you only $6.45, or delicious half spring chicken smothered in country gravy is only $3.75. Or you might find a nice little snack bar that serves hearty meat sandwiches for as little as 95¢.

Leave everything to us.

One of the nicest things about traveling on Amtrak is all the things you don't have to do. You can even allow yourself to be bored. Look out the big picture windows and see America as it's never seen from a superhighway or 5 miles high. Read. Snooze. Meet people who are as relaxed as you are. But if you're the type who just must be productive there's no better place to work than on the train. With nothing to worry about you can really concentrate on office or homework.

For more information or reservations see your travel agent or look up Amtrak under Railroads in the Yellow Pages.

There's bound to be someplace you're bound for on Amtrak because Amtrak operates 250 trains every day over 25,000 miles of track, serving 480 communities. And it's easy come, easy go to any one of them.

MARIE THOMAS

THOMAS-In loving memory of our dear wife and mother

MARIE THOMAS for her sixty-fourth birthday. The rolling stream of time flows on But still the vacant chair Reminds the love, the voice, the smile Of wife and mother, who once sat there. The flowers we lay upon your grave May wither and decay, But the love we have for you dear, Will never fade away. A loving wife and mother, so true and kind No friend on earth like her will we find; For all of us she did her best, May God grant her eternal rest. Husband, Children and Grandchildren.

MRS. BEATRICE SQUIRES

SQUIRES-In loving memory of MRS. BEATRICE SQUIRES who passed September 8, 1971. Passed away four years ago this month

Passed on beyond our mortal vision But now the thought is robbed of gloom Within the Father's many mansions Still dwelling in another room The one whose going left us lonely Is scaling heights undreamed of yore And, guided on by love's unfolding Has gone upstairs and shut the door. Sadly missed by Husband-Rev. William L. Squires

We watched and waited And hoped in vain For God to make you well again, But God knew best, We had to part It eased your pain But broke our heart. Sadly missed by Wife, Armilla Sister, Armentha and Family

Here's a new wrinkle on how to look great when you get where you're going: Unpack the clothes you expect to wear first and hang them on the shower curtain rod over the bathtub. Then turn on the hot water and let the steam rise. Wrinkles will fall out after a half hour and natural fabrics will dry quickly and smoothly.

'The Wilby Conspiracy,' 'Report to the Commissioner' now showing at Walker

IN HIT MAKER: Sidney Poitier portrays a black revolutionary leader who battles the discriminatory laws of South Africa in "THE WILBY CONSPIRACY," now showing at the WALKER THEATER. The film also stars Michael Caine as an Englishman who sympathizes with the black cause.

"The Wilby Conspiracy," a gripping adventure story with two great stars, Sidney Poitier and Michael Caine, is the top feature this week at the Walker Theater, 607 Indiana Avenue. "Report to the Commissioner" is the co-feature.

"The Wilby Conspiracy" introduced two new leading ladies: Prunella Gee, a young actress who first made her mark in British television, and Persis Khambatta, a former Miss India and an actress of striking beauty. That said, it must also be mentioned that the film has an added significance. It is fiction factually inspired. Set in South Africa it is an objective look at a by-product of that country's attitudes. The screenplay by Rod Amateau and Harold Nebenzel is based on the novel by Peter Driscoll.

Martin Baum, who produced the film said: "We recognize that there are many South Africans who reject apartheid completely. The film is against any system which creates second-class citizenship in whatever form or from whatever cause."

Ralph Nelson, the director, calls it "a film about man's humanity to man which, in the course of entertaining, may also make people think." A Baum-Dantine production,

"The Wilby Conspiracy" is released by United Artists, an entertainment service of Transamerica Corporation.

"Report to the Commissioner" is the story of young people who meet treacherous cross-currents of police work and underworld operations. It is also a mystery thriller that builds to a series of shattering climaxes. It is a portrait of life in a modern metropolis as seen through the diverse eyes of some of its most colorful citizens. It is a disturbingly knowledgeable critique of our law enforcement system. It is a drama of the contemporary tensions and problems of young people inside and outside the establishment.

Believe Me.. When I Tell You

BOB WOMACK SR.

GIGS DWINDLING...Musical scoring of the Hollywood movies have dwindled to virtually zero. Today, not a single cat of the Musicians' Union Local No. 47 (AFM), is under contract to the movie studios. The only guaranteed employment of union members in Los Angeles is the 105 members of the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Max Herman, president of Local 47, (AFM), explained -- "A top-man at one of the big independent studios told me that of 32 pictures processed there last year, only two were made in this country. That means fewer and fewer local gigs for musicians."

"We have an agreement with the producers that films made in the United States have to be scored here. But we have no jurisdiction over foreign-made films." Many out of the country-made films are edited in Hollywood, but scored elsewhere. Some film companies go abroad for musical backgrounds because they don't want to pay an extra fee for the record album.

According to Herman: "It's true that our musicians must be paid 'new use' checks if the film score is converted into an album. But that could be a very small expense for a good-selling album."

"Another problem for the musicians has been the changing styles of film scores. The old style, lushly orchestrated music has almost disappeared. Modern films sometimes use nothing more than a couple of guitars or a rock group."

In closing, the spokesman for the West Coast musicians also related, "I deplore the trend of making musicals abroad. I think it's un-American to take shows like 'Cabaret,' and 'Fiddler on the Roof' which have made their reputations and millions of dollars by playing in this country, both were scored and filmed in Germany and Yugoslavia respectively."

THE DEMISE...For the record, the average American funeral costs $1,033, plus cemetery expenses of up to $600. For that, Americans get a hearse, two limousines, police escort, a flower truck or car, the use of a chapel, a soloist (organist) embalming, cosmetizing, clothing, a casket and minister. Sometimes, the latter comes extra.

It wasn't always that way. Until the Civil War, most Americans weren't embalmed. That custom spread after thousands of soldiers had to be embalmed to preserve their bodies on the trip home from battle front deaths.

Burial customs are different in other countries. For example, in the Soviet Union, the state picks up the tab for all funeral expenses. In Italy, graves can be bought or leased. When the lease expires, the grave is opened, the remains removed, and the bones placed in a small wall niche.

And in Tibet, when a death occurs, the body is taken to an area where a master of ceremonies cuts the body up and leaves it for the animals. Several days later, the family returns to retrieve the bones. Wow!...Perhaps, American funerals are better after all....

Believe Me! LOCAL SCENE...In many of our nightly tours around the city where 'live music,' is featured, several of the so-called musicians on location gigs can't spot the dots. In other words, they can't read music. The kind of music they play begins with a feeling and the instrument. That's fine, but one should be able to translate this feeling onto paper. Reading is a necessary tool. Sight reading is where it's at if one expects to advance in the 'big-time' musical field.

Over 90 percent of the 'named cats' are basically readers, and can dig any score from the classical to the blues. All the leading bandleaders demand that their sidemen read at least four bars ahead on the musical score.

For the laymen: We mean that the reading dude is reading one measure at a time, and he can dig the other measures before he comes to them. In other words, like you read your daily newspaper....Top-rated theatrical, radio, and TV shows will not hire non-reading musicians. The latter couldn't cut the shows' special arrangements on sight.

Many of the nite-lifers remember that some years back when the Expo Center was to have its grand-opening and the Sammy Davis Jr., show was booked for the affair. A prior public statement was issued by the white bandleader in charge of the large all "lilly-white" house (pit) band, that in his opinion, "there were NO local black musicians qualified to cut the show's music on sight." At show-time, there were four soul brothers in the house-band line up, namely: Jimmy Coe, Roger Jones, Reginald DuValle and Jimmy McDaniels. The cats dug the musical arrangements and blew up a storm!...After the 'happenings' each brother was congratulated personally by the bandleader in question, the musical director and Davis himself.

NATIONAL SCENE...Aretha Franklin is currently putting together some material consisting of the high points of her sensational singing career. The background material will be aired on her forthcoming TV special....In the October issue of "Playboy," Cher of TV and record fame admits that if there is anyone she'd like to be, it is Diana Ross.

Barry White, superstar entertainer, has received an offer from Motown's board chairman Berry Gordy Jr., to join his record company as one of its top executives. ....According to the road manager of the "Average White Band," the group will tape a show in late October for Don Cornelius' "Soul Train" TV program. Previously, the aggregation had taken offense after being accused of "getting over with a black sound" and then trying to avoid being called a black crew. At one time, the cats stated that they couldn't find the time for

At Uptown Theater--

'Chop Saki Film Festival' features three of Bruce Lee's greatest films

A "Chop Saki Film Festival," featuring Bruce Lee's three greatest kung-fu film hits, is presently being featured at the Uptown Theater, 42nd and College. Slated on the film fest are "Fists of Fury," "The Chinese Connection," and "The Sacred Knives of Vengeance."

Lee first learned about Kung-Fu (Cantonese spelling) as a teenager. His father taught him the rudimentary principles and as Lee explains, "I was hooked on it from there on. My father sent me to study with Yip Man, a famous Hong Kong teacher of the Wing-chuen Kune style of Kung-Fu, which I later modified; the technique I use in my films is one that I call Jeet Kune Do. Basically it uses more foot work than the more elementary style."

Lee, who earned a Masters degree in Philosophy from the University of Washington, wrote his thesis on Kung-Fu. It was later expanded into a book which was published in 1963 by the Oriental Book Sales of Oakland, California, and called "Chinese Kung-Fu, the Philosophical Art of Self Defense."

"It was difficult for me to start my career in America," Lee said, "since roles for Chinese were rare and those that were available always given to Japanese; so, immediately after my graduation I opened The Bruce Lee-Jung Fan Kung-Fu Institute in Seattle. This school taught the Jeet Kune Do style of Kung-Fu. This style is more dramatic and spectacular and stresses brevity. The great leaps are all part of the Jeet Kune Do style."

In the early 1960's the word karate was already familiar to the American public but the groip kicks and eye gouges that are used weren't ready to be accepted. However, the film companies were eager to use this flashy martial act and found that by assigning karate and Kung-Fu to the bad guys the public would accept it. For quite a few years the karate fighters in American motion pictures were always the bad guys. The turnabout came in 1964 when the James Bond movies used a superficial form of karate as a self defense to defeat the enemies of justice.

KUNG-KU FLICKS AT UPTOWN: Bruce Lee demonstrates a Kung-fu kick in "THE CHINESE CONNECTION," one of three Bruce Lee greats now showing during the "CHOP SAKI FILM FESTIVAL" at the UPTOWN THEATER. Also showing are "FISTS OF FURY" and "THE SACRED KNIVES OF VENGEANCE."

AT UPTOWN: Tsung Hua (left) stars in "THE SACRED KNIVES OF VENGEANCE," as a fiercely proud youth who fights for his life. The kung-fu great is now playing at the UPTOWN THEATER.

In 1967 the final breakthrough came with the Green Hornet TV series in which Bruce Lee played Kato and became the first practitioner of Kung-Fu to demonstrate incredible combat techniques that had never been seen before. This was the first accurate depiction of the Oriental Martial Arts shown to a wide general public.

Bruce Lee, the first American born Asian superstar, has never stopped working on his technique. "The Chinese Connection" shows even more of this incredible self-defense mechanism. National General Pictures is releasing as they did the earlier "Fists of Fury."

THANKS A MILLION to those wonderful people who took time out to CALL me and apologize for not being able to visit me during my illness. They have my deepest appreciation. KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK.

Here's a letter (two-years old) from a fine lady in Chicago: Dear GIP:

"I am Ann Carter, sister of Mildred Williams Green (recent widow) of your City. I am a subscriber to the Recorder, so I finally found out that you are ill, and have been for some time.

"In order to identify myself further, I must tell you that I am the former wife of Chick Carter, band leader and musician, from whom I have been divorced for many years. However, our son, De Armand Carter lives here in Chicago and is married and has two little boys. (Just call me Granny). De Armand is also a Chicago police officer and has been on the police force for eleven (11) years.

"Let me say how very sorry I am to know that you are ill. You know, for a long time, I wondered where on earth was the 'SAINT' in the RECORDER! Before I read the headline in the paper, I always look for your column, because I know that you know what is really happening in Indianapolis at all times. Then too, I have always considered you as the VOICE OF THE CITY, especially as to what is going on in the black community.

"I suppose you are wondering what kind of work I am doing now. For the past 2-1/2 years, I am and have been in the Department of Urban Renewal. For nine (9) years before that, I was at the Chicago Police Department as a Police transcriber. So, as you can tell from that I am still working and going right along. As a matter of fact, I don't know what I would do if I couldn't work. Needless to say, I am sure that you realize what that is all about, but hopefully, you will be able to work full time again soon. I will certainly say some special prayers for your complete recovery.

"I notice from the paper that Mark (Marcus Stewart) is still the editor and publisher of the RECORDER: that Joyce Thompson passed some years ago. (She was such a lovely woman); that Mark's children are all grown now. How the years fly by!

"Another thing I forgot to mention in my 'Identity' paragraph. -- I worked in the office of Dr. L.A. Lewis in the Walker Bldg. for eight (8) years before he got my job in the Board of Health (City Hall) for me. -- I believe Aldridge is now an Attorney, and to think, he and I were in the same graduating class from public school #4.

Oh boy! (smile)

"Before closing, may I ask you to call my sister, Mildred, if and when you get the chance or feel up to it. She, herself, is not well, suffering with Arthritis and Hypertension, though the doctor has the high blood pressure under control, and relief from the Arthritis, she isn't at all well. Her phone number is, 924-2005.

"I am sure she would be delighted to hear from you, as you and Mil had quite a 'thing' at one time, years ago though it has been, (smile).

"I must close for now. If you have the time, or feel well enough, please let me hear from you. I sincerely hope you will get better, not only for your own sake, but for the sake of your many faithful readers that miss you like crazy!"

Sincerely yours,

HOWARD ENIX

HERE'S a photo of my long-time friend, Mr. HOWARD ENIX whom I haven't seen in many moons. The last time I heard from him he operated a grocery store on W. 27th or 28th streets. HE also ran a fish market on N. Senate. He was always on the go, trying to make a name for himself in the business community. Yet he would take time out to visit with this writer and other friends along the AVENUE. We hope he's still doing good in the grocery business or what ever line he's handling now. He was indeed a good friend... So, carry on Brother, wherever you are.

Globe-trotting Gilbert Wayman is back in town from Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., and his hometown, Baltimore. We spotted him 'other day by his pretty white (his trade mark) hat. The fella moves around and is always good for an intelligent conversation. He called the other day from the home of Mr. Charles Edwards, our mutual friend, where he was visiting. He is also a good friend of Mr. and Mrs. Uless Manson (Arlene).

Good friend Mr. Leroy Johnson called from Boston to inquire as to our health. He promised to be down soon for a visit with old Naptown friends.

Drummer J.C. Heard

Any conversation concerning all great jazz musicians and entertainers down through the years will most definitely include a name that is synonymous with the highest caliber of traditional jazz and popular music J.C. HEARD.

The noted drummer is currently in the city playing at the Beef Baron Room in the Hilton Hotel.

J.C. is considered by the Encyclopedia of Jazz to be one of the greatest drummers of all time. He has won numerous awards such as the Playboy, He's strictly in my corner. And I do appreciate every minute of it (nuf sed).

My dear brother John called from Richmond, Va., and was glad to know that his fine baby brother is doing lots better. Thanks to Miss June Tinker for keeping me in fresh fruit all during my illness. A fine lady in my book (don't cha kno?).

DE LOVELY Marietta Kohn drops by occasionally for a visit.

Mr. Russell Davis, my landlord from Anderson, was by the house a few days back and wanted to know if things were alright. He is giving me a new paint job in the kitchen and bedroom and living room. A fine fella along with Donald Rhodes, the singer who's in charge of the house.

ATTY. HENRY J. RICHARDSON

IN LOOKING over our files cabinet, we came across this fine letter from one of Naptown's top bracket lawyers. It is so fine we want to share it with you. Here 'tis:

"Dear Mr. Gibson: 'I wish to express my gratitude to you upon your recent article and extend to you my highest felicitations for your unselfish, constructive, and honest service.

"I hope that it may be my pleasure to meet you, one who is big socially, perceiving, and unselfish and honest in the recognition of the efforts (though ever so humble) of the citizens of this community. With kindest personal esteem, I am,

Respectfully yours,

Henry J. Richardson, Jr."

Listing Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Benny Goodman, Woody Herman and the Jazz at the Philharmonic All Star Concert Show, just to name a few as representative greats that J.C. Heard has played with, will serve as a preview to the countless credits you will find here.

Aside from being a great drummer, J.C. is a very competent entertainer. he sings, dances and does a bit of comedy as a singer. J.C. has a style all of his own. Velvet is a word that aptly describes his voice, but his vast experience in show business, playing behind such great singers as Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Frank Sinatra, Nat King Cole, Tony Bennett and Billy Eckstine, just to name a few, has afforded J.C. a polished, indescribable treatment of each individual song.

His repertoire includes Latin pops, blues ballads and Jazz American. J.C. has performed in night clubs and concerts throughout the States, the European Continent and the Far East. He has also appeared on the Steve Allen Show, Mike Douglas Show and the Ed Sullivan Show and has made recordings with all of the above mentioned artists, plus many of his own.

streets dirty because somebody in Congress says that you MUST scrape up enough MONEY to buy these essentials. I ask you again to write your Senators and Congressman and let them know in a little bad grammar how you feel about this hardship.

Do it today! Don't delay because this is an election year... and they NEED YOUR VOTE... whatchabet. Keep those letters rolling and you will get results. Believe Me!

'From These Roots' winning awards at phenomenal rate

"From These Roots," a film about the Harlem Renaissance, has won awards from 15 International Film Festivals. The film, produced, written and directed by the Emmy award winning producer - director William Greaves, has been winning awards at the phenomenal rate of over one a month since it was first released last August.

Just recently it was one of three films especially chosen, out of 43 American submissions for screening at the prestigious Moscow International Film Festival. More recently, it walked away with two awards at the Jamaican International Film Festival in Kingston, Jamaica. The film was chosen there as the best film of the festival, climbing over a number of theatrical feature films to win that coveted award. Film maker Greaves was also chosen there as the best director of the festival.

Sponsored by the Schomburg Center For Research in Black Culture, the film deals with the social cultural and political forces that shaped Harlem and Black America during the 1920's. It considers the impact of the Black Cultural explosion in Harlem on the rest of America and the world. Many well known Black personages in the arts, culture and music, who lived in Harlem of the 1920's, appear in the film.

An original score was especially composed and performed for From These Roots by the 93 year old musical wizard Eubie Blake and it is eloquently narrated by Brock Peters.

The film has been acclaimed at such festivals as the New York Film Festival of Lincoln Center, Festival del Ppoli in Italy, The Melbourne Australia, Atlanta and Chicago International Film Festivals.

Winning awards in films is not unusual for Harlem born William Greaves. A former featured Broadway and movie actor; Greaves has now won over 40 awards for his various productions and is fast becoming another Hank Aaron in his field.

His feature film "All The Fighter", has now gone into nationwide distribution and is receiving rave reviews all over the country.

He is currently completing final work on another feature film "The Marijuana Affair", starring Calvin Lockhart.

"From These Roots" is distributed by Greaves own company, William Greaves Productions of New York City.

"Autographs", along with Ray Washington.

With her business marriages and her charity involvements, Miss John's four sons (Limuel, Joel, Jesse & Otis) are very proud of their mother, and share the thought with Sickle Cell Foundation officers and members the world over, who readily admit, Mable John is one of the finest, most understanding human beings in the world.

Miss John visited New Orleans where she took part in a 48 hour long telethon to help raise money for the dreaded disease. She slept not a wink, and worked to the point of exhaustion, helping the New Orleans Chapter of the Sickle Cell Foundation raise over $100,000.00.

She has participated in many fund raising campaigns and given up countless precious hours for the benefit of Sickle Cell Anemic patients; never asking for anything in return.

She is very sincere in her efforts and only wants that in the near future we see this terrible disease being defeated.

Recently Miss John was visited by employees of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Sickle Cell Center, who wanted to see her again. Together Miss John and her guests lunched and she then showed them some of the scenic landmarks Los Angeles has to offer its visitors.

Mable John is not only President of her own publishing firm, Fourth House Music, she also co-manages a group of talented young singers known as the

Evansville News

By CLEONA SCOTT

We have the first black man in Evansville to become an interior designer, having been interested in home furnishings since he was a small boy. His name is Harry Williams, son of Mrs. Dorothy White of Evansville and the nephew of Pittsburgh, Pa., where he received a degree in environmental (a new word he said for interior) design.

Williams is now associated with Marianna Interior Designing. He often wonders why it took him so long to get into a field that was his childhood love. He visited Goodwill and Salvation Army stores with his aunt looking for used furniture. As a result he developed a trained eye at an early age to pick and choose between good and bad.

Williams, who lives in a beautifully-furnished home at 888 Mulberry with his wife, Eula, and five-year-old son, Stephen Reginald, says he still haunts the Goodwill and Salvation Army looking for "treasures". As an example he was fortunate to pick a cloisonne vase, he now uses as a lamp base. His expertise in interior design shows up in every nook and corner of their home which he has done in a country theme. He also thinks of country and chickens, and so beautifully designed is a 200-year-old framed Oriental silk screen that hangs on the wall with hand printed of chickens.

When Harry graduated from High School he entered Indiana University to become a medical technician and after two years the pursuit of a career that he had thought would be exciting and rewarding became routine to the artistic young man. He left college and joined the Air Force for four years. He had an opportunity to visit Hong Kong where he purchased some of the lovely silk-screened prints, oil paintings and hand-made table linens that now grace the Williams' home. When he returned from the Air Force he was employed for six years at Mead Johnson, but took a part-time job with interior designer, Dick Mansfield.

"While working for Dick I definitely decided that interior design was my field, Harry said. While at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh, he was the first black student to become president of the student chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers. Prior to graduation he worked on a room for the Decorator's Show House sponsored by the Junior League of Pittsburgh. His room will appear in both Better Homes and Gardens and McCall magazines sometime between now and the first of the year. In addition to working at Marianna's, Harry will begin teaching a night class next week on basic design at Indiana State University-Evansville. He is kept busy with interior design assignments on both commercial and residential basis. Let's all say, "HATS OFF FOR HARRY".

Evansville was well represented at the convention in St. Louis the past week as many reported a very nice meeting and most all officers were re-elected for another year. They also said the annual address made by the president was greatly applauded by the audience.

The Watson family of Indianapolis and the Watkins and Hines family of Evansville wishes to express their appreciation for the acts of kindness shown them during their bereavement. Signed: The mother, wife and sister.

Kentucky State president named to succed Dr. Carl M. Hill

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- Dr. William A. Butts, age 42, administrator and a teacher new at Mississippi Valley State University, Itta Bena, Miss., last week-end was selected the next president of Kentucky State University. He will succeed the retiring president Carl Hill. Dr. Butts will be the eighth president in Kentucky State's 90-year academic history.

Dr. Butts will take office December 1, after an orientation period in November. He has served already as special assistant to the presidents of two other universities. He received his undergraduate degree in political science at Mississippi Valley and his AM and Ph. D. degrees at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, (Ill.) He also has studied at the University of Toledo (Ohio) and Tuskegee Institute (Ala.) Dr. Butts' professional affiliations include the American Political Science Association, Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History, Black Political Scientist, Southern Political Science Association, American Association of Higher Education, National Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa and the American Council on Education.

Dr. Butts was chosen in 1972 as one of the "Outstanding Educators in America" and the same year as one of the top "Personalities of the South."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. -- (NBNS) The fatal shooting of a black man the third nonwhite to be shot here by police in five days, and an ensuing series of fires broke the calm here over Labor day weekend. Ethnic tensions remain high.

Birmingham editor eulogized by Dr. Benjamin Mays at rites

DR. EMORY O. JACKSON

By Howard B. Woods
NNPA Vice President

BIRMINGHAM-- This city is a better place because Dr. Emory O. Jackson, lived, worked and died here, said Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College, in his eulogy of the venerable civil rights leader and editor of the Birmingham World.

Services for Dr. Jackson were held last Tuesday at the Sixth Street Baptist Church. The 67 year old crusader died of cancer. Burial was in Shadow Lawn Memorial Gardens.

Tributes for Jackson came from all over the country. Before a church filled with friends and family, Dr. Mays said that the late editor was "born a free man." He walked like one; talked like one and looked like one. Tracing his history of public service Dr. Mays said that Emory answered his call to duty after graduating from Atlanta's Morehouse College.

Nathaniel Veale, director of Alumni Affairs at Morehouse, speaking for its president, Dr. Hugh Gloster, who is ill, said even at college, Emory Jackson protested segregation. He said his protests of the men's rooms being marked "Faculty" "Men" and "Boys" succeeded in changing the designations.

Robert Johnson, associated publisher of Jet magazine, said that Dr. Jackson, as his teacher in high school, always made his students read newspapers and write letters to the editors. He told us that newspapers were of some value "other than papering the walls to keep out the draft or to spread on the floor after a mopping or to supplement the worn soles of your shoes."

This writer, speaking for the National Newspaper Publishers Association, told of his longtime work and membership in the association. He was described as brusque, though compassionate and that the project of the Black Press Archives at Howard University was under his guiding hands and direction.

C.A. Scott, editor and general manager of the Atlanta Daily World chain of which the Birmingham World is a part, said that he gave Dr. Jackson a free hand in editing the Birmingham paper. "He was one of the most vigorous, persistent, and courageous advocates in the South for full civil rights for our people," Scott added.

Others who paid tribute to the great editor were: Congressman John H. Buchanan of Birmingham, his field representative, James C. Cotton; wealthy businessman A.G. Gaston, Dr. Sanford Bishop, president of Bishop State College; and the Rev. John T. Porter, pastor of Sixth Street, and YMCA chairman, Dr. Wayman C. Matherson.

Black woman gets top ACTION post

VINETTE E. JONES

WASHINGTON, D.C. --

Vinette E. Jones, of Washington has been appointed assistant director of ACTION for recruitment and communications by Mike Balzano, director of the federal agency for volunteer service. Previously, she served as deputy and acting assistant director for the Office of Recruitment and Communications for nearly a year.

Miss Jones, 43, oversees the work of about 450 employees of ACTION's Washington and regional offices in informing the public of ACTION programs and recruiting volunteers for the Peace Corps and VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America).

"I've been associated with ACTION programs for some years now," said Miss Jones. "And I continue to be excited about the many ways volunteers can assist communities and organizations, and also by the variety of Americans who consider volunteerism important enough to give of themselves."

Before coming to Washington, Miss Jones was the director of ACTION's New England regional office, with headquarters in Boston. In a new departure for ACTION, she was the first person to have responsibility for both domestic programs and recruitment and communications efforts in an ACTION region. Previously she was responsible for volunteer recruitment in the northeastern United States.

ACTION's domestic programs, in addition to VISTA, are the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), Foster Grandparent Program, Senior Companion Program, ACTION Cooperative Volunteers and University Year for ACTION. The Peace Corps is ACTION's International Volunteer program.

Miss Jones first joined VISTA in 1966 as a recruiter after a teaching career in the Baltimore and Sunderland, Md. public schools.

A native of Red Bank, N.J., she is a graduate of Bowie State College in Bowie, Md. She received a master's degree in education from George Washington University in Washington in 1959. She also attended Howard University and the Modern School in Music in Washington. Miss Jones taught elementary school in Sunderland from 1954 to 1959 and in Baltimore from 1959 to 1965.

She became a member of the VISTA recruitment staff in Washington in 1966 and transferred to Chicago the following year as a program assistant. After six months she became chief of recruitment for the Great Lakes region, and later served as recruitment chief for the Northeast and Middle Atlantic regions. After the creation of ACTION in mid-1971 she was named chief of the professional services desk for the agency's Office of Citizens Placement in Washington.

A resident of Washington, Miss Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Viola Jones and the late Edward Jones of 821 Mechanic St., Red Bank, N.J.

NEW HOPE UNITED METHODIST CHOIR

New Hope Methodist Choir of Anderson schedules 7th anniversary celebration

by REV. RAY WRIGHT

The New Hope United Methodist Church Choir, 1503 Louise, in Anderson, was organized in December of 1969 under the leadership of Mr. Richard Henderson.

The director of the choir was Eugene F. Brown. Later his Later his son Stewart Brown, became director. He went to the Air Force in July of 1971 and Mr. Henderson then became director and organist for the group.

The choir is composed of people from all walks of life, from students and housewives to highly skilled professionals, ranging in age from 13 to 60 years old. They are not only a concert choir, but also a choir on their job every Sunday morning for church services.

The many congregations that have presented the choir in concert have voiced the claim for the gospel in song.

The group has traveled extensively throughout Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio and also with the "JAMES CLEVELAND GOSPEL MUSIC WORKSHOP" in Chicago.

We have two young men who recently graduated from Anderson High School, Mr. Vincent Guiley, who was our saxophonist has enlisted in the Army, and Mr. David Jackson, who also was in the percussion section, is a student at Indiana State University. They contributed much to the choir.

On October 12, 1975, at 4 p.m., the choir will be celebrating their 7th Anniversary The Antioch Baptist Choir of Muncie, and the Marion Community Choir, will be guests. In addition to the guest list, all choirs of the various churches in the city will be present to render music also.

Future programs dates are: Friendship Baptist Church, 1540 W. 16th, in Anderson, on Sept. 28th at 7:30 p.m. and Scotts United Methodist, October 26th at 4 p.m., in Indianapolis.

Officers are: President, Mrs. Atta Streety; Vice-President, Mrs. Gayle Henry; Secretary, Mrs. Lynette Brooks; Asst. Secretary, Miss Lois Jackson; Business Manager, Mrs. Dorothy Chappell; Chaplain, Mrs. Dolores Mosley; Director, Organist and Proprietor of the Henderson School of Music on Nichol Ave., Anderson, RICHARD HENDERSON. The pastor is Rev. M.L. Brooks.

The purpose of the New Hope United Methodist Choir is to lift and strengthen others spiritually through gospel in song.

Tuning in on ANDERSON

By REV. RAY WRIGHT

MRS. ADA PEARL GIBBS

ANDERSON --

"Thank you" is very easy to say, but very hard to express, but not in this case. Wright's Variety Corner and Bonita Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell, want to express just that to all you beautiful people who found it in your hearts to send donations. We hope others will pitch in and help this unfortunate child; you are too wise not to.

Send donations to: Wright's Variety Corner, 2215 Madison Avenue, Anderson, Indiana 46011, attention Rev. Ray Wright and/or Schneida Burgess.

Welcome, welcome, welcome to the state of Indiana, all the students that are attending Anderson College and Ball State University from different states and countries. We hope and pray that you have a very successful school year. From Wright's Variety Corner with pleasure!

Constitution Week (September 17-23) commemorates the signing of the American Constitution, and the Kikha-we-nund Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution used the time to encourage study of that document.

F. Walker informs us that inmates who want to learn and know and understand the Bible have an opportunity at the Madison County Jail here. Classes are held on Monday Nights for two hours of non-denominational Bible Study from a Bible Workbook (New Testament) Vol. II, by Catherine B. Walker, Standard Publishing Company. These classes are informally held by seven male volunteers from Bethany Christian Church of Anderson, an independent, New Testament church. These classes have been started since Sheriff John Suter took office.

We were deeply saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Ada Pearl Gibbs, who died September 15, at a local nursing home.

A native of Montgomery, Ala., Mrs. Gibbs had lived here since 1948 and was a member of the Zion Baptist Church.

Survivors include five children, Vincent and Adair Gibbs, Mrs. Ethel Hampton, Mrs. Catherine May and Mrs. Betty Johnson, all of Anderson; a sister, Mrs. Rosie Gilbert, Anderson; a brother, Rev. V.L. Lewis, Detroit, Mich.; 28 grandchildren, 1 uncle and several nieces and nephews.

Members of the Madison County NAACP organization wish to express their deepest sympathy and to extend sincere condolences to Adair Gibbs and his family in their time of bereavement.

The community was shocked to hear of the death of 17-year-old Walter A. Long of Muncie who allegedly committed suicide September 14 after reportedly quarreling with his girlfriend. Police said the youth laid his head in the path of an oncoming train on the Penn Central tracks a mile east of Daleville near Delaware County Road 400S.

Mt. Sinai Church of God in Christ, located at 1566 Columbia Avenue in Indianapolis, will be celebrating the 2nd Anniversary of their pastor and wife September 28 to October 5. The pastor is Rev. Oscar Perry who, along with his wife Darlene, reside at 2121 Brenwood Drive in Anderson.

Among the many guests to appear are: Elder J. Sanders, Elder Payne, Elder Johnson, Elder Lee, Elder Bates, Elder Phillips, Elder Tindler, Elder Bishop, Elder Henderson, Elder Clay, and Elder Buggs, all of Indianapolis. Other guests include Elder T. Glenn of Kokomo, Elder Townsend of Ft. Wayne, Elder Lewis of Muncie, Elder Scott of Chicago, Elder Tolbert, Elder King, Elder White, Elder Wright and Elder Burgess, all of Anderson.

All evening services will begin at 7:30 p.m., and afternoon services will be at 3:30 p.m.

Power House Church of God in Christ, 1819 Lincoln, will be celebrating the 20th anniversary of their pastor and wife September 28 to October 12. Elder Louis Burgess is the pastor and his wife is Indiana Hall Burgess.

Special guests will include Bishop Roberts, Elder J. Sanders, Elder Harris, all of Indianapolis; Elder Clark and Elder D. Coate of Muncie, Elder T. Glenn of Kokomo, and Elder Tolbert of Anderson.

ATTENTION: Church news and lodge news, weddings, social news, in memoriams and other news -- if you want any event or news in The Recorder it has to be in by every Friday. Contact: Wright's Variety Corner, 2215 Madison, Anderson, Ind. 46011.

FOOD STAMP ROLLS DECLINE

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The Agriculture Department reported that a net total of 100,000 persons went off the federal food stamp rolls in July but the 19.1 million who remained received increased benefits.

The program, which peaked in April at 19.6 million recipients because of the recession, declined in both May and June at a rate of 200,000 a month. On July, the allotments of stamps by family size and net income were increased to reflect rising retail food prices late last year, as federal law mandates on a semi-annual basis.

A great editor passes

With the passing of Emory O. Jackson, longtime editor of the Scott family's Birmingham World, Black America loses one of its most effective and deeply dedicated journalists and civil rights advocates. From 1940, when he was named managing editor of the paper, until his death last week after a long illness, Emory, as he was known to a nationwide circle of friends and followers, had been in the vanguard of every move in Alabama for the advancement of black people.

As long as 30 years ago, Emory stood on the tracks of segregated Freedom Train when it stopped in Birmingham and forced it to change its admission policy. And long before Wallace stood in the door of the University of Alabama to block the entrance to a black student, Emory had been fighting for the admission of blacks.

A perceptive writer, an eloquent speaker, a militant civil rights leader, and an expert parliamentarian, Emory organized the Jefferson County Progressive Democratic Council, as well as the Greater Birmingham Negro Business League and the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches through which he pushed registering and voting.

For years, Emory was executive secretary of the Birmingham Branch of the NAACP, director of the Social Action Program of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity and chairman of its local scholarship committee. Also he was a member of the Board of Management of the YMCA.

And among the dozens of other organizations with which he was associated are: The Alabama Council on Human Relations, the Birmingham Chapter of Frontiers of America, the Greater Birmingham Interscholastic Athletic Conference, and the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA) — the Black Press of America.

Emory served a number of terms on the NNPA board as he was doing at the time of his death. And it had been the hope of NNPA members that he would write a definitive history of the Black Press after his retirement from the WORLD, because he was the best qualified to write such a history.

Already, he was chairman of NNPA's Archives Committee working closely with Dr. Michael R. Winston, director of the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center at Howard University, toward the establishment of Black Press Archives and Hall of Fame there.

For his adroit hand, Emory received many honors, including an honorary LL.D. degree from Morehouse, his Alma Mater; and citations from Tuskegee, Miles College, the NAACP, the United Negro College Fund, and NNPA. And he was twice chosen "Man of the Year" of Alabama.

He won nationwide acclaim for his continuing battle against Police Commissioner "Bull" Connor and police brutality which was prevalent in Birmingham for many years.

Last week, Emory was relieved of the heavy burden placed on his broad shoulders by the urgent problems of our people and his ever willingness to serve. Although exhausted and worn out in long service, we are sure he whispered as he breathed his last, "Lord I'm not tired." He will be sorely missed in Alabama and the nation. (NNPA)

Stiffer punishment urged for crime

For a long time, the nation has tended to lean towards more considerate punishment in connection with crime. Strong leanings have been in the direction of rehabilitation of criminals. But these approaches do not seem to be working in coping with the crime problem.

Now, the pendulum is swinging in the opposite direction. The new trend is toward harsher punishment for committed crimes. Longer periods of incarceration is surfacing among criminologists, as well as among others engaged in the business of giving out justice.

Presently, the thinking is that lenient sentences and rehabilitation are failures.

It is reported that prisoners themselves give the testimony that present prison programs have not motivated them away from their criminal life styles — styles that led them into crime in the first place. If released, they admitted they would return to a life of crime. They still believe in keeping one step ahead of the law once they get out of prison.

We say it reluctantly, but it seems that the nation must gear itself to have bigger and more costly prisons and more personnel to operate them. So many are saying the return of the death penalty is the answer, when it comes to such crimes as kidnapping, murder and the like. Would that we could escape returning to old inhumane methods of punishment.

Instead of punishment, we feel that much of the problem could be reduced if we attacked the basic issues: We must get to the child before criminal patterns are begun. In addition to this, we must reduce racism and economic unfairness among our citizens. All these serve as a breeding ground for the development of criminals.

Psychologists are convinced that criminals are not born. Rather, they are made by the environment in which they live. Look at the example set by adults in the Boston school system, and don't forget the Louisville, Kentucky, situation. Adults are setting bad examples for the youths. —THE CAROLINIAN

End of 'black movement' angers Recorder reader

To The Editor:

It makes me angry when within the black areas of our city and many others across the land the "Black Movement" has ceased to exist.

We have returned to our street corner follies. We have returned to our three and four people clicks.

We have also taken up where we left off before the "Black Movement" in killing one another at a record pace. The administration of our land permits these inner-city areas to be flooded with hard drugs to destroy useful minds of those who, one day, may have been black leaders of tomorrow; but now are mindless symbols of what was once a proud black man.

It makes me angry when I hear my people demand respect from the world, yet we have none for one another. We should not have need for Rev. Jesse Jackson to remind us we are somebody; for let it be known that my mother was somebody I, her son, am but the same. Richard W. Hinkle, Indianapolis

Remember the old Nixon policy of Vietnamization — the idea that the U.S. would pull out its troops and just give the locals a minimum of money and equipment to keep them fighting alone.

It was a way to disengage the nation from the terrible war raging in Vietnam. The Pentagon must have known it would lead to the South Vietnamese losing the war, but it was a face-saving device that enabled us to escape the full force of the final cataclysm of defeat.

There's another kind of Vietnamization policy in effect today. This one involves federal withdrawal from the financial crisis inflicted upon many cities in the nation. The policy in full bloom was seen in the bankruptcy of New York City.

The city was on the financial ropes for many reasons, not least of which were its own irresponsibility, mismanagement and costly union contracts. Those were the reasons highlighted by federal officials, banking circles and the media.

But there were other reasons for New York's distress. And those reasons are unrelated to the managerial prowess of the city's administrators; indeed they affect most of the older large cities and many small ones as well.

The biggest cause of the crisis was the national Depression that threw people out of work, left office space empty and taxes unpaid. This Depression that threw people out of work, left unpaid. This Depression had its genesis not in City Hall, but in the economic policies of the Nixon years and the continued failure of our national government to create jobs.

A second major cause, and one shared by most other cities is the long-term trend of middle class departure for the suburbs. The central cities thus lose their tax base, yet must provide services not only for the remaining residents who are more likely to be poor and in need of services they cannot pay for, but also for the army of suburbanites that works in the city but does not pay its fair share of the costs of services it uses.

And behind all of this is the full range of national policies in the post-war period that helped to drain the cities of their tax base. Federal policy built roads and financed housing that created the suburban magnet. Agricultural policies destroyed the family farm and supported the technological revolution that drove the landless poor into the cities without marketable skills. Private policies, encouraged by similar federal ones, redlined central city areas cutting off the flow of investment in housing.

Add it up and you get a long-run war against the cities which has led New York first, and others surely to follow, right to the brink of default and bankruptcy.

New York's default apparently has been averted off, at least until December. What happens then? Default has been pictured in the media as meaning that the city won't be able to pay off its bondholders. But that's just the tip of the iceberg.

Welfare checks won't go out. City workers won't be paid and what fireman or cop will stay on the line without a paycheck? Schools would close, hospitals shut down, and services end. You'd have to drop a bomb on a city to get the same kind of chaos.

Attempts to paint this situation as just being a New York problem are obvious attempts to mislead the public. Already, New York's fiscal crisis has led to unbelievably high interest rates in other cities and states, crippling their ability to raise investment funds.

And it's only a matter of time before other cities are on the ropes; in fact some are almost there already. The New York crisis is one partially created by national policies and one that has national implications.

But Washington's response was a hands-off attitude. It was a domestic Vietnamization stance — leave it to the natives and if they can't hack it, too bad. If this policy continues, it could result in a chain-reaction that will make the Great Depression of the 1930s look like a fancy dress ball.

Quest for Equality

By Clarence E. Hodges

Watch the campaigns

The two major political party candidates have fired up their campaigns with speeches, visiting, and various forms of advertising. They are visiting and getting involved in all communities even though they have had some difficulty connecting the black community to their advertising. Their messages about fighting crime have not been too clear to many inner city blacks are major victims of both white collar and blue collar crime.

As you meet the candidates at various gatherings, you should continually stress your concern for equality. We must have assurance of top administrative positions just as women have been promised and white men always get. Bill Hudnut has always followed the practice of hiring blacks at the top and all levels.

On the matter of police protection, it's difficult for any mayor to make any major changes in the police department. The F.O.P. too often manages to get a judge to protect the interest of white policemen over black policemen and the city.

Since the police and sheriff departments do not have proper representation of blacks at any level, they should acquire court approval to a plan of all hiring and promotions being equally divided (50-50) between white and black. This is the solution often proposed by the Federal government and the only one that has brought results. Equality can lead to respect and cooperation on the part of the community toward the police.

The political campaigns must be closely watched. We must also ask what have the candidates done in our interest in the past to make us think they will do anything in the future.

Gun control law affords many points of view

To The Editor
The Recorder
Dear Sir:

Some years ago when I was in a bar in Old Mexico I was cleaning my fingernails with a small pen knife. Pretty soon a fat policeman arrived and without a word he took my knife from me. It seems that he considered pen knives to be deadly weapons. Howard K. Smith wants us to have gun control. This means that most of our personal liberty would be taken away, because many policemen behave themselves when the population at large has access to fire arms, but once they knew that they were the only with small arms who knows what they would turn into.

I wonder if the Jews that Hitler killed could talk what they would say about giving the police (or anyone else) control of the weapons. No, I learned a bitter experience a few years ago, during the Vietnam war. I was harassed to death by two men because of my anti-war stand. These men practically had me crawling on my hands and knees with there nasty abuse.

I don't think that you know what it is to be hounded, threatened, badgered and tormented eight hours a day. Well, I do, but that wasn't bad enough one night these hoodlums even told me that they were going to take me for a ride the next morning. I thought of my gun at home in the dresser drawer and how my fears would be gone if I just hadn't been such a fool. I hope that Howard K. Smith never has such an experience. Bill J. Bloomer, Yanceyville, N.C. 27379

Why our economy always works so poorly

BY ALFRED BAKER LEWIS
National Treasurer
Emeritus NAACP

I do not have to argue that our system of production for profit of the owners of industry works poorly. We are in the midst of a serious depression. And we have depressions or recessions frequently. The last serious one was in 1929 - '33, and we have had a number of less serious recessions between then and now. Before 1929 we had a depression about every ten years.

Consequently we have either less output or less leisure than we should have. The reason is that there is in our system a chronic built-in deficiency in demand, except in so far as government deficits provide a partial counterbalance to this deficiency.

Every business, large or small, naturally tries to maximize profits, and therefore tries to cut costs. Except in a very few special cases like the generation of electric power, the largest single item of cost is labor cost. Employers as a rule can't cut their labor costs by wage cuts. The unions are too strong, actually or potentially, to permit that because wage cuts would generate or strengthen the desire for a union. Also, public opinion would not approve a wage cut, and would overwhelmingly support a strike against such cuts, when prices, especially for food and fuel, are rising drastically.

But nearly everyone approves of "labor saving" devices. The most modern dramatic form of labor saving machinery is automation, i.e., machines direction and controlling other machines. Of course, such labor saving machines do not save labor. When a machine is introduced that enables one man to do the work that five formerly were needed to do, each man does not work one fifth as hard or as long. Four men lose their jobs, and one man works as long as before. The labor saving machinery is in fact labor displacing machinery.

Of course in the example given there is not a net loss of four full jobs. For it takes someone's labor to make the machine and keep it in repair. But there is some net loss of jobs. Otherwise the employer would not gain from introducing the machine.

What labor displacing machinery and automation do is to save the wages that the employer has to pay to get the same output.

But labor is not just a cost of production. It is also, taken as a whole, the greatest single source of purchasing power. Thus in exact proportion as employers reduce their labor costs, they reduce the purchasing power of the great mass of workers.

The owners of industry do not produce goods to satisfy human wants. They produce goods in response to purchasing power, i.e., desire backed up by ability to pay, what economists call "effective demand." Reducing labor costs reduces effective demand, and that in turn reduces output.

The way automation, the most effective form of wage saving machinery, reduces effective demand is well illustrated by a true story told to me by Walter Reuther, the head of the United Auto Workers until his death and a fellow member with me of the National Board of the NAACP.

After a bargaining session, the employer took Reuther to see a fully automated plant, where automobiles were turned out by automation from raw material to the finished product. There was hardly a worker on the floor; just two men with binoculars in a gallery above the floor, to press buttons to slow down or speed up the automated process, or perhaps stop it temporarily altogether if something went completely wrong. "You will have trouble collecting dues and strike assessments from these machines," said the employer. "No more trouble than you will have in selling cars to them," was Reuther's response.

That explains why there is idle machinery, and far too much unemployment even in so called good times, let alone the current depression, so that our economy does not furnish us with anything like as much goods or services or alternatively greater leisure as our marvelous technological ability to produce makes possible.

This is not just theory. It is a fact. The only time we have full employment is during war. In World War II the government provided almost unlimited purchasing power to turn out the means of destruction. We put some 15 million men and women in the armed forces. It is estimated that it takes about two men behind the lines to keep one person in the armed forces fed, clothed, transported, and furnished with weapons. With 45 million people taken out of producing useful goods, we had as high, if not a higher, standard of living than before, except for restriction on the private use of cars. To be sure we had rationing of some products. But a good many people who had not usually before had a decent meal because they were unemployed or could work only occasionally, had for the first time full time jobs and better food than they had had before. All because there was a dequate purchasing power due to wartime demands.

Another reason why our economy works poorly is that more and more people see it as immoral and unjust. For example, when automation is introduced the entire burden of the loss is borne by the workers who lose their jobs. The entire profit from the use of automation to cut labor costs accrues to the owners of industry, unless there is a strong union to slow down the introduction of automation. This is clearly unjust.

The possibility of getting an effortless income is another example of the injustice in our economy. If I say of a man: "He is always looking for something for nothing," you know he is a cheat or a crook. Yet our economic system makes it possible for the owners of industry, even those in the age, sex, and health bracket who are capable of doing useful work, to get something for nothing. I am not of course referring to old age or retirement pensions or Medicare or Medicaid for the sick. Rich people can and do get an income, sometimes a very big one, without having to work for it. They do this because they own and control the jobs that workers must have to get a living, and will not give a job to anyone or keep him on the payroll unless they can get a profit from his labor.

Libraries and our heritage

Dr. John Hope Franklin, world renowned black historian of the University of Chicago, journeyed to San Francisco to address the 94th Annual Conference Program of the American Library Association recently. Homing in on America's pluralistic society, he praised and prodded librarians for their role in building a richer and better social order.

Professor Franklin strongly suggested that the library has yet to prove its intellectual independence and leadership. In tracing the U.S. library history, he held out hope it could continue to contribute to American society.

Professor Franklin, stated that in 1885 one white American authority, Dr. C.K. Marshall, had confidently predicted that the Afro-American population would disappear altogether by January 1, 1920. However, we increased from a healthy 4,500,000 in 1870 to a whopping 9,000,000 by the time of Dr. Marshall's "day of judgement" in 1920. Today we bang around 25,000,000 blacks. But we have never been alone as minorities in this country.

Professor Franklin points out that there are many millions of people of diverse racial, religious, cultural and national backgrounds who contribute to the well-being of each other and of the nation. Migrations of families to this country either voluntarily or involuntarily represented an opportunity for the libraries to be of service by conserving their heritage.

The professionalization of the nation's educational and cultural leadership that was promoted by the growth of institutions of higher education provided some assurance, according to Franklin, that these institutions would not fall prey to the political opportunists who had little or no interest in the life of the mind.

To this end, Harvard College was established in 1636. It raised the consciousness and self respect of teachers and librarians alike who began to appreciate even more than in the past their responsibilities as guardians of the nation's heritage.

This heritage includes, not just history of blacks off boats from Africa, Swedes saving money during the long winter snow in Sweden or Catholics paying homage to the Pope. But it also includes philosophical, technical, financial, accounting, managing, scientific, engineering, technological and mathematical knowledge built up by Americans in all walks of life. One might ask what does this have to do with business? Well every library has books on business. (NNPA)

Pacers open training camp minus three veteran stars

The Indiana Pacers opened training camp last year as the "new" Pacers after four veterans were traded before the opening of the season. That "new" team paired well with the rest of the league and finished the campaign as runners-up to the champion Kentucky Colonels.

The Pacers are truly "new" this season, now without the services of superstar George McGinnis, who signed a lucrative contract with the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA. Also gone from the lineup will be starting guard Kevin Joyce, veteran Roger Brown and reserve forward Charlie Edge.

Pacer fans will see several new faces this year, including their top draft choice, forward Dan Roundfield of Central Michigan, forward Charles Jordan, former Shortridge High School great from Canisius; guards Mike Flynn from Kentucky and Nate Barnett of Akron and center Greg Parham of Akron.

All will be in action when the Pacers face four NBA foes during the exhibition season next month in tilts at Market Square Arena. One of those teams will be the 76ers.

Coach Bob Leonard, conducting camp at Rose-Hulman Institute near Terre Haute, has said you don't replace the league's leading scorer and the teams leading rebounder and assist leader, you just go with what you have.

However, most of McGinnis' slack will have to be taken up by forward Billy Knight, last year's rookie sensation out of Pittsburgh; veteran center Darnell Hillman of San Jose State; and Len Elmore, rookie center in 1974 who really began to come around at the end of last season.

Also returning will be guards

Kenya's trackmen drawing criticism

NAIROBI, Kenya--

Kenyan track officials are refusing to panic over the poor showing this year of its track stars, which has led to a wave of attacks on the state of the sport in the local press.

Kenya, which prides itself on being the leading track nation in Africa, failed to win a single first place at the United States German - African meeting in Durham, N. C., or at the pre-olympics meeting in Montreal.

But Charles Mukora, who is chairman of the Kenyan Amateur Athletics Association and a former international track and soccer competitor, is happy about the health of the sport here and even about next year's olympics.

"The press has jumped the gun with their attacks. There is plenty of time before Montreal, and obviously athletes have this in mind and are building up towards it. It is Montreal that counts for them, not winning anything this year," he said.

"The press appears to have overlooked the fact that we already have 17 Olympic qualifiers, with at least one

ICLU affiliate files suit in U.S. Court against State Prison officials

Project Justice and Equality, the Calumet Chapter of the Indiana Civil Liberties Union and the Clinical Program of the Valparaiso University School of Law filed suit last week-end on behalf of Richard G. Sargeant and his fellow inmates at the Indiana State Prison and other Indiana penal institutions, alleging violations of the prisoners' First, Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

Filed in the South Bend Division of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana, the suit challenges the actions of Indiana Department of Corrections officials and the administrators of the state prison and reformatory in holding Mr. Sargeant and others in solitary confinement for unreasonable lengths of time without bringing any charges against them.

In addition, the suit charges that prison officials transferred Mr. Sargeant from the Indiana State Prison to the Indiana

State Reformatory, where he no longer has access to rehabilitative activities, and removed a number of his privileges in retaliation for his efforts to improve prison conditions and thus prevent prisoner uprisings, and for communicating his concerns to public officials and the news media.

A number of Mr. Sargeant's fellow inmates were given a choice of remaining confined to solitary or attending transactional analysis sessions in retaliation for their similar attempts to bring about positive changes in penal conditions.

Mr. Sargeant and the other prisoners affected had all been involved in the activities of the Prisoners' Alliance Council, a group originally authorized by the Indiana Department of Corrections, but unrecognized by prison administrators since early this year when a new warden was appointed. The group, organized to promote prison reform and to act, in effect, as a prisoners' grievance committee, had regularly been bringing to the attention of public officials and the news media charges that prison personnel were wasting food while inmates went hungry; property without later being able to account for it, were failing to provide adequate medical, educational and recreational resources, and were generally failing to deal with inmate grievances.

The prisoners' confinement to solitary and the deprivation of their privileges occurred shortly after public officials reportedly began questioning Department of Corrections and prison administrators on these issues. None of the inmates involved had any past or recent history of violence within the prison and many were considered "model" prisoners until they began to publicly voice their concerns.

The suit asks that the prisoners' former status and rights be restored and for over $52,000 in damages against corrections officials.

BOOKS, BOOKS AND MORE BOOKS: Workmen unload one of 92 semi-trailer truck loads of new Indiana Bell telephone directories for distribution throughout the Indianapolis metropolitan area. The big job requires unloading the trailer, and then hauling the books in smaller trucks to distribution points near each of the 1,200 delivery routes. Directories for suburban customers have been redesigned to make them more useful.

Benjamin L. Hooks FCC COMMISSIONER

Obstacles and opportunities in broadcasting for blacks

gl-- obstacles and opportunities I am often asked the question: "What is the real situation in terms of black employment in ownership of properties in the communications industry, particularly in broadcasting?"

Let me say at the outset; yes, there are obstacles to increased and better employment of blacks in the industry and their ownership of broadcast properties. But there are opportunities, as well.

At the Federal Communications Commission, there are a number of skilled job openings from time to time. The most sought after professionals are lawyers and engineers. But until I came aboard July 5, 1972, as the first black Commissioner in the history of the FCC, there were only two black lawyers out of a total of more than 200, and only three or four black engineers.

Today, there are 17 minority lawyers and more than twenty engineers of color. This is a small start, to be sure, but the FCC is now committed to employment of black professionals and we shall go forward.

In the industries we regulate—tv and radio, telephone, satellites, cable, specialized communication carriers—there is an on-going need of employees possessing professional skills: engineers, radio and tv technicians of all kinds, economists, accountants, management, sales personnel, on-air personalities, electricians, public information specialists, etc.

At the FCC, jobs that range from clerks, stenographers to broadcast analysts, personnel officials, economists, and of course, lawyers and engineers, await those bright, determined and ambitious young people who want to make a career with our federal regulatory agency.

It is not enough these days to say: "I'm black, so my chances are limited in the job market, because of institutional and overtly expressed racism." Racism, institutional or otherwise, is there. But blacks everywhere are challenging it and winning. Look at current tv programming. A few years ago there were few black performers in drama, comedy or commercial news presentations. Today, although you may quarrel with the quality of such programming, you are forced to admit we are certainly a lot more visible in a lot more positive situations than before.

Nt long ago, Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association, noted there were "more black youths in institutions of higher learning than in Great Britain with 55 million population." National Education Association figures from last year of 814,000 bear him out.

Some of these ambitious young students are enrolled in schools of communications in Atlanta (Clark College) in Jefferson City, Mo. (Lincoln University) and Washington, D.C. (Howard University) to name a few. Others are enrolled at leading white schools of communications.

By the way, broadcasting has more than 11 percent minority employment, presently, compared to the print media where blacks in editorial positions in the metropolitan newspapers are less than two percent.

of California at Irvine in 1974, he spent two summers with the Ventures for Victory cage team before joining AIA East. In his senior year at Irvine he averaged 12 points and 7.5 rebounds per game. He also played one year for the University of Minnesota before finishing his collegiate eligibility at Irvine. Magnuson will team with 6'9" forward Bob Hornstein and Don De Hart, 6'5", in the forefront.

The Athletics in Action East Basketball team opened practice sessions for the 1975-76 season lacking the services of Gerald Douglass and Isaac DeVore. Both Douglass and DeVore decided not to stay with AIA after winning positions on the squad in the team's try-out camp in June. or more men in every track event. Is that so bad for a country of 12 million people?" asked Murkors.

"We have promising athletes and I'm sure they will do credit to their country in Montreal. The fact that we have not produced another (Kipchoge) Keino or (Ben) Jipcho at the moment is simply chance. Runners like that don't appear every day," he said.

"What is more important is that the state of the sport is healthy, that young people still want to take part and are doing so in ever increasing numbers. We will produce more world stars. It is just a matter of time before that happens."

Keino, having won two Olympic gold medals, has been Kenya's greatest track star and the idol of every schoolboy runner. He and the silver medalist, Jipcho, turned professional after the Munich Olympics, but now Kenia has retired from running and wants to put something back into the sport that has done so much for him.

"I run my own business now and have been waiting for a chance to serve the K.A.A.A. in whatever way I can," he said. "There is a host of talent in Kenya and I will be doing my best to bring it out."

Athletics in Kenya is well supported by sponsors and by government institutions.

Oldsmobile 1976.

An Olds for everybody.

And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer showroom. They're impressive.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

This year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

THE '86 REGENCY. Proof that the world of luxury doesn't have to ignore a concern for gas economy.

DELTA 88 ROYALE. All the solid dependability of a family-sized Olds. Yet the 88 gets good gas mileage for a car of its size.

STARFIRE. Who says you can't get good gas mileage in a sporty car? Check out Starfire, Starfire SX and the available Starfire GT option—Oldsmobile's supercoupe.

OMEGA BROUGHAM. Quite possibly the most luxurious coupe ever built. But its impressive gas mileage reminds you it's an economy car, too.

CUTLASS SUPREME BROUGHAM. The first mid-sized car to have an interior inspired by the famous '66 Regency. The gas mileage is pretty inspiring, too.

People who need People by Gladys Keys Price

Stork's Nest aids expectant mothers

Needy expectant mothers who seek a helping hand can breathe a sign of relief, safe in the knowledge that the extra help they seek is available to them through the "Stork's Nest, Inc." STRICTLY SPEAKING, Stork's Nest is a non-profit, redistribution center where welfare and working needy expectant mothers, referred by cooperating hospitals, clinics and health centers, can get needed maternity and infant clothing and furniture for minimal cost. Actually it is an incentive program to increase the number of women seeking the early and continuing prenatal care so necessary if a baby is to be born healthy.

THE FIRST STORK'S NEST was launched in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1971 as one of many educational and service projects of "Better Infant Birth" under the sponsorship of the National Foundation March of Dimes. They actively enlisted the services of several organizations, among them Zeta Phi Beta, who viewed the project as the fulfillment of their pledge to become more deeply involved in the health and welfare of children.

CURRENTLY THERE ARE 27 Stork's Nest across the country. The program is in its fourth year as a national project sponsored by the Zeta Phi Beta with the cooperation and support of The National Foundation -- March of Dimes and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, whose goal is to prevent birth defects and to better the quality of life at birth.

IOTA ZETA CHAPTER of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority has sponsored the project locally for two years, as they saw a vital need in Indianapolis in view of it's size and apparent inability to reach out and meet all of the various requirements supportive of child birth and motherhood.

There are approximately 50 women active in the local chapter, and among that number those immediately involved in the Stork's Nest are: President Eva M. Board, who also prepares Stork's Nest inventory and participates in other supportive committees; Vice-President Ethel M. McCane, responsible for public relations and procuring clothing, furniture and other items for the Nest, and who assists with interior decorating; Treasurer Dorothy Bingham, who is in charge of obtaining and training volunteer clerks for the Stork's Nest; Secretary Ida Armour, and Member-at-Large, Eva M. Rice.

OTHER MEMBERS of the Sorority who have been actively involved in the Stork's Nest are Jean Woodard, Mary L. Dixon, Effie Burford, Verna Brent, Lois Mendenhall and Leona Moore.

THE LOCAL STORK'S NEST is presently housed in the Coppin Chapel A.M.E. Church, located at 3201 North Capitol Avenue, and is open Saturdays only from 10:30 - 2:30 p.m. Help is available to any expectant mother who has been referred by a qualifying agency, and who has in her possession a referral form indicating her need.

VOLUNTEERS ARE NEEDED to give layettes, baby furniture and other items needed by infants and expectant mothers as well as new ones.

IF YOU ARE in need of help from The Stork's Nest, or you have hours to give or items to donate, contact Mrs. Eva Board at 925-4965 after 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and tell her all about it. ...Have A Better Tomorrow, Help Someone Today.

Happiness Through Health by Otto McClarrin

HEART STUDY AFFIRMS LINK OF BEHAVIOR TO ATTACKS: A recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association presents the final report of an 8 1/2 - year study which confirms earlier findings that the aggressive, hard - driving individual is much more likely to have a heart attack than a relaxed person. The study was of more than 3,000 men employed in 10 California companies. They ranged in age from 39 to 59 at the start of the project.

The study found that men falling into the behavior pattern marked by "aggressiveness, competitiveness, competitive drive and chronic sense of time urgency" had heart attacks more than twice as frequently as those characterized as more relaxed individuals. The study also reaffirmed that the classic risk factors - family history, diabetes, smoking habits, blood pressure and levels of blood lipids - play a role in the incidence of heart attacks.

SCIENTISTS BELIEVE GENE IS BARRIER TO MALARIA: Scientists at the National Institute of Health believe they have identified a gene in red blood cells that allows them to block the spread of one of the most common types of malaria and thus offers total protection against one form of a disease that kills one million people around the world a year.

This gene, known as the Duffy negative gene named after the patient in which it was first discovered, is commonly found among residents of West Africa who are resistant to the vivax form of malaria. The scientists said the red blood cells containing the Duffy negative gene could be seen under a microscope blocking the malaria-causing parasites. Although largely eradicated from North America and Western Europe, malaria is still a scourge in the rest of the world. An estimated 523 million people -- more than twice the population of the United States -- are exposed to malaria in Central and South America, Asia, the Southwest Pacific and tropical Africa. The disease strikes about 100 million people a year, and about one million die from it.

The NIH discovery opens the possibility of new forms of treatment for malaria - including an anti - malarial vaccine, according to Dr. Louis H. Miller of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, who headed the research team. After finding that the Duffy negative repelled a parasite that causes malaria in monkeys, Dr. Miller said he found that the gene is common among groups of Africans and American blacks resistant to vivax malaria.

The NIH scientists are not sure, however, that the Duffy negative gene will provide protection against the other two common forms of malaria -- falciparum, the greatest killer, which is common in Asia, Africa, New Guinea and Haiti, and Malariae.

Federal funds, $850,000 awarded locally to fight on crime

The Indiana Criminal Justice Planning Agency, last week-end authorized a total of about $85,000 in federal grants to local law enforcement agencies. The largest grant approved was $410,000 to the Indiana State Police. This grant would be used to finance the second-phase development of the Indiana Law Enforcement Emergency network. This is a state-wide radio link-up of law enforcement agencies. Other grants approved included, Marion County Municipal Court, $183,672 to continue post of judicial information system coordinator.

Earnings gap narrows substantially between black and white workers

FLORIDA SWEARS IN BLACK JUDGE

WASHINGTON -- Blacks working full time continue to earn considerably less than whites, but the gap narrowed substantially from 1967 to 1975, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

Over this period, the real earnings average for black full-time workers increased by 24 percent, whereas that for whites showed only a 4 percent gain.

Based on data collected once Marion County Cancer Society cites two members of board

The Man of the Year Award and the Woman of the Year, "Sword Award" of the American Cancer Society in Marion County were awarded to John T. Sutton and Mrs. E. David Tavel on Tuesday evening of this week. The plaques were presented to the two recipients at a special reception by James S. Whitfield, president of the Marion County Unit of the American Cancer Society. James D. Blythe II, an attorney was elected president for the ensuing year of the Marion County Unit. Sutton, a vice president of the American Fletcher National Bank, has served as president of the unit and as a member of the board of directors. Mrs. Tavel is also a member of the board.

Working wives with full-time jobs reported average (median) weekly earnings of $139 in May 1975. In real terms, their earnings showed no change relative to 1974 but remained lower than in 1973.

Despite the declines from the 1973 peaks, the purchasing power of the weekly earnings of male household heads and of working wives was still about 10 percent higher in May 1975 than in May 1967 (when these data were first collected). Compared with working wives, women heading their own households reported somewhat higher earnings for full-time work--$149 per week. In constant dollar terms, the earnings of this group have shown a 16 percent increase since 1967.

While median earnings of men and women 25 years and over have shown average annual increases of nearly 8 percent (in current dollars) over the 1967-75 period, those for young men and women 16 to 24 have grown at an annual rate of less than 6 percent. In constant dollar terms, the weekly earnings of these young workers were actually somewhat lower in May 1975 than in 1967. Part-time workers reported average weekly earnings of $50 in May 1975. This group of workers, which consists largely of women and youths, accounted for over 18 percent of the wage and salary work force, up from 14 percent in 1967.

do the earnings data which are derived from the monthly survey of establishments and which are published in the Employment Situation and Real Earnings press reports and other Bureau publications. While the establishment series based on actual payroll records provide more comprehensive measures of average weekly and hourly earnings by industry, they cannot be broken down by demographic group, full- or part-time status, or other characteristics of the work force.

TALLAHASSEE -- Joseph Hatchett has become the first black state supreme court justice since Reconstruction. Hatchett, the son of a fruit picker, took the oath of office as a Florida supreme court judge. He was appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew, who said Hatchett "could face a challenge in a statewide election," but "a lot of that depends on how he handles himself between now and the next election."
